All of the owlets - first and second clutch - have had such distinctive little personalities from "the get-go"...Ashley looked like a tiny Cornish Hen flapping around on her scrawny, "down"-less wings - checking out the box - not clinging to Molly at all...and Molly would stare at her with the MOM look..."That girl is going to be a handful...!"

Great video of her coming in on the roof...and lots of flashes, so Carlos got good pictures, too. Wonderful to have her back and know we had no injuries from the fall. And good to see her fly...whether she stays in the box now or not, we know she is alive, well, and learning to be an owl. And, unfortunately, that she can do without all of us. Sad, but happy for her.

Ashley seems quite happy to be back in the owl box. She's not even waiting by the door, which is very unusual for her. That's good, though, because it gives Carrie a chance to work on getting up her nerve.

Have to give up now and go to bed! I will be happy that the only worry (I hope) left for tonight is whether both owlets will be fed! Last night's food supply seemed a bit skimpy, especially since we don't really know whether or not Ashley was fed at all. It would be nice for tonight if they could have nice full tummies after such a big adventure. Well, there was an owl, but it really didn't stop! Maybe it was one from the first clutch. (I always like to think they are still around.) Carlos is checking that out now. Too much going on to leave, but a person just has to bet some sleep sometime. Such a dilemma!

I like how the video looks as if Carrie is nipping at Ashley as if to say "hurry and get in here or you'll be in big trouble if Mom and Dad catch you! I've been covering for you all day!!" --or perhaps the nipping was simply --- "got anything to eat?" (I tend to prefer the over-personification of the former. 😊)

 She just wants to chew on her toes or is it the other way around? One of those gals has a foot fetish and again they are probably both very hungry. If you think about it, now she has to share her food which she is not always apt to go outside to get. I seriously don't think owls think that far ahead but it is a thought!

I have a theory as to where Ashley is. She is at Burger King, trying to get them to let her "have it her way", which would be no sauce, no bun, no veggies, extra mice. Then she is trying to convince them that she is the model for all the Ga'hoole toys they are carrying now. I can hear it now: Ashley: "Yes, I'm a model and very famous. Probably better known than Heide Klum. No, I don't do autographs."
Now I have to go to bed. Goodnight all, and good dreams.

Knowing these little critters, she's probably in a bush or made it to a tree. One of our little ones fell from her nest and since we couldn't put her back (way too high up), we placed her in the tree and Mom and Dad kept a close eye on her as well as us. Finally she learned to fly on her own. Ashley got too smart for her own good, haha. She'll be fine!

Lynda CAshley took a short flight last night. When she tried to return to the porch she misjudged the landing and fluttered down to the ground. She is out of the box, hopefully hidden in some shrubs and we're hopeful that she will make her way back up to the owl box tonight. Carlos checked the yard today and didn't see her, but didn't want to shake the bushes, etc. that might scare her. For more info and a video of her "mis-step" check out the wiki <http://mollyowl.pbworks.com/Second+Clutch+--+Information+and+Videos> and Carlos' blog <http://mollysbox.wordpress.com/blog/>Today, 01:33:56 – Flag – Like – Reply

See my links posted in reply to Annie below. Ashley flew for the first time last night twice to the landing pad but the second time she didn't make it back into the box. She seems to have misjudged the landing and gone to the ground instead. We were hoping she would show up tonight, but she hasn't yet. We are pretty sure she is in the bushes/trees there somewhere.

Carrie is in the box. You can see her peeking out the door on OB2. For information about Ashley, see my answer to the poster just above you.

Did Kathryn come home yet? We are going to be in trouble for not taking better care of Ashley while she was gone for a few days!!

Ashley has been out of the box since last night at about 3 AM PST. She was practicing on the ledge, went to fly back t the box, couldn't quite stick the landing, and fluttered out of camera range, presumably to the ground. Carlos it out listening to see if he hears her.... have not heard anything new.

Well folks,

The cat is signaling me to sign off and give her some kitty snacks before turning in...

Good night all!

Wow.... I start headed for the basement and it looks like everyone went to bed about 30 minutes ago... I have been gone down to Hood Canal... chainsawed up a load of wood and headed home. The Tech called and needed a sub for the welding class tonight... so I have been worried all day and hopeful to find all happy in the Box. Is there anything for me to know? Any new?? Hope you are all well.

Last night, I kinda "swore " I saw Ash hangin' out in the mimosa. But it's just the way the tree looks---sigh.....

But now i hear our baby squawkin' and i'm back into the "hoping" group: HOPing Ash will at least show herself, hoping we will get to see her working her way up the mimosa, hoping we will get to M/M deliver to the "yard". Wheeee!

But no matter what, never have we been able to observe this owl box growth in this manner, so I'm at the very least grateful we're all doing this together.

Looks like we have no Ashley yet. I was home for lunch and read what happened to Ashley. Hope and pray she's fine. I'm sure Molly is taking good care of her.

I'm so tired I can't even hardly type. Worked long hours again.

Not sure how long I'm gonna be here tonight
