Carlos has said it would be. But, some of the equipment was used at the picnic and has to be set back up again. That may take a few hours. If there are any glitches or other problems in setting it up again, it may not be on. We all have to be patient and understanding if it doesn't get set back up.

What a project for Carlos and Donna...and just ahead of a set of trips they are taking! I don't care what anyone says, they deserve my gratitude, and a whole lot of blessings raining down on them! The picture and sound was a little rocky, but set out in a park with only a generator, I thought they did well. Now, what will happen with Miss Carrie? I say it will be a SURPRISE! Won't that be fun???

I think one of the reasons this video and sound seem so bad to us, is we are spoiled!!! Carlos has seen to it that we have the best of all video, from the best camera angles, from numerous cameras. For night or day, rain or sun. He made sure we had a view of almost anywhere in his yard the owls could go. He made sure that during his chats to us that we could see and hear him! (Well, Donna had to remind him a few times!) Carlos did the very best he possibly could to bring us the best owl show on earth! Yep!! We are spoiled rotten!!!

Sales, like magic, is all about perception. For the most part, people like to be sold and they like to be tricked. But try to tell them exactly how they're being manipulated and they resent you for telling them. It's a really interesting study to watch people rationalize purchases once you know why certain techniques are effective. People are very predictable. The strange thing is how it doesn't really matter in the end, because people get such a feeling of pleasure when they think that they've made a wise purchase that even obvious deception is ignored.

There are schools you can attend to become an Auctioneer. I was engaged to a guy who's family owned an auction company and his dad and all of the boys were licensed auctioneers. I helped out a many. Lots of work!

One thing about some auctions (not saying that about this one), but many have people in the crowd making bids to drive up the bidding to make sure that the item is sold for a reasonable price. And there are bid spotters in the crowd making sure the auctioneer knows who is bidding and what the bid is.

Would have loved to be at the picnic, but live way east in Bethlehem, PA. Spent the afternoon at Hawk Mountain Sanctuary in New Ringold, PA instead. Weather was beautiful for raptor migration, and there was a outdoor amphitheater show which featured an American Kestrel and a Barred Owl. It is amazing how the owl flaps those mighty wings and makes NOT A SOUND! Figured I'd be with our owls in spirit, which i think is sometimes better than in person. 😊 Hope everyone who attended had a good time-it sure looks like a lot of fun!

I hope everyone doesn't complain to Carlos about the sound. As I have already said, I think it is so nice of him to try to show the picnic to us at all! I haven't looked at the other chat to see if they are saying much, but I think it is really sweet of our MODS to be so nice about it. But, our MODS are "practically perfect in every way". 😊

The Bionic Woman calling all quilters....

How about this? Why don't WE make a quilt(s)? We can each do a 12.5 in square and depending on how many squares we get, will determine how many quilts are made. We could have one put together for the Royals and auction off any remaining quilts and the proceeds go to the local wildlife program in San Marcos. Any takers? I don't mind being the organizer but would need help with the actual quilting. IMHO, not all of it, would need to be owl related....

I was going to offer to organize but if you want to do it, that's great! I would love to contribute. I'll even volunteer to do the quilting if we keep the size to "sofa-sized", like 4'wide by 6'long. After the chat settles down and we know who's interested, we can talk about color/pattern/etc.

Count me in!

If they do this like last time, later on they'll have people come up to the camera away from the crowd and let them talk. I'm guessing that will be at least an hour from now. We'll be able to hear that better.

Whew, gasp, pant.... Sorry I'm late for the picnic MODs but I've up and down on a ladder all day working with DH on the pergola. Coming right along though. Very tedious work so needless to say the back is a little stiff. I don't realize how out of shape I am until we do stuff like this. Anyway, here's my virtual four cheese mac and cheese casserole so dig and and enjoy. Lovin' y'owl and it looks our sister and brother MODs are having a wonderful time. I know we enjoyed the Orlando MOD meet so we're all fortunate to have each other as friends.

Hello EFS in Tucson. Where is a good place to live in AZ? If we get a particular Gov in our next election we plan on leaving California. We were thinking of AZ. We would like a small town with a little snow in the winter and not so terribly hot in the summer. Does AZ have such a place?

Today, 14:16:46 - Flag - Like - Reply

El from Florida Keys

Hi Shirley, Prescott AZ would be perfect for that. They have all 4 seasons and not too hot or cold. AZ is really my favorite state but ended up in Florida! I don't know how big it is but I'm sure it has grown since I lived there. Tucson is a great place too but if I remember right it can get pretty hot there but I believe it cools off at night.

Hello, all. Just tuning in for the first time today. Of course I'm delighted at the news of Carrie...boy, Carlos called it!

Have to watch for CAR--sure hope we get to see her....and I hope she has a few issues of the Hork for Carlos! 😊

It doesn't have to be a long message or comment. I'm sure if he decides to broadcast any future clutches he will post it here. <http://mollysbox.wordpress.com/blog/> You can also check back here to the SPO chat room. I was up at 1:00 am San Marcos time and saw Carrie just sitting out on ledge after her fly-a-bout. Went on back to bed because it was 3 am here. So what has happened to Carrie? Did she leave for the palm trees for the day, or is she in the owl box still all by herself?

Carrie decided it was time to put on her big girl panties and she has left the box for the trees with her family.

Dear Lurkers,

Please join us for all the fun and games that follow a fledging. That means we all use a lot of tissues, and lay in a couple bottles of whatever-it-is-we-like-to-drink. We cry and commiserate, we tell tall tales, (most are true, I'm sure) we exchange recipies, bemoan our old (er) age and all that comes with that. We talk about our grand kids and kids and DH's. Mostly, we just stay in touch and make the bonds of our friendships stronger.

My granny used to say "Don't be a stranger".

Sincerely

Diana

When Carrie decided to leave this morning, I had a mixture of tears of joy and tears of sadness. Then, in a roller coaster of emotion, I just decided that this would be the time to absolutely fall apart. So, I became overly emotional knowing this, too, would end. It has been so full of emotion on a moment to moment basis. The absolute joy, and wrenching sadness that has filled us all for these months cannot possibly be known to those who were not here. Likewise, the friendships that have developed over this time period also cannot be understood by anyone not a part of the process. I've loved every day of this. I've felt every day of this. I'll miss every day of this.

I've been watching the DVD (finally!) and I'm impressed with Austin's professionalism and, miracles of miracles, Carlos talking straight narration. I'm glad to know he has it in him 😊. I wasn't here for the first brood but A&C did pretty much the same. One confession. I saw a hork and squirt (a double barrel, first A then C let loose) but I never saw a swallow. Taking down a whole rabbit is a pretty impressive sight. So, OK, I've seen a swallow! Now, on to the picnic and, hopefully, the next clutch. Cheers!

My husband tried to teach me to drive our 1917 Model T, but I just could not get the hang of it and worried about hitting a car in busy traffic. I agree! SPO has been incredibly gracious hosts. I can only imagine some of the headaches we've induced. 😊

OK, I'll break down and join you in your thanks, Sue. I joked about them and they often came on during less than ideal times, but her enthusiasm was there and children just loved them. 😊

Watching from Syracuse, NY

Is CAR going to be at the picnic today? Where is she from...she has me confused. At first I thought she was from NYC, then Minneapolis, then Florida. CAR where are you from????? Are you independently wealthy or does your husband work for an airline? Love you. You are one of my favorites!!!

hello all! i was just popping in between errands (trying to get things done before the picnic - wish i could be there!) and i see carrie is out of the box today! this is such a bittersweet moment - and one we have all waited for! i'm so happy for her - and sad at the same time! thank God for the reruns and then the picnic to distract from the sadness!
