Live Barn Owl Nest Box Cam - San Marcos, CA

This is a live feed of a wild female barn owl named Molly. The owl box is located 15 feet off the ground. The male (McGee) has a white chest and face. He usually shows up after dark but has spent an entire day with the female. For more information about the owls and this cam. Click Here Click Here to "Like" us on Facebook.

Ruth, are you still on? Did you get an answer to your question about the nightly food tally? The moderators on the official chat site watch diligently all night long and keep up the list. They have a little fun with it, but by morning it's complete and accurate.

Went to the supermarket a few hours ago and strangely enough all the bread and milk was gone. Turn out we have a tornado warning here on Long Island. I'm not sure what to make of that.

Barb and Mary,

I grew up in Kansas City, MO not far from the Kansas border. I never take Tornado warnings lightly. Before I was born in 1957, the Ruskin tornado started in mid-KS and went all of the way to almost mid-MO. It was a mile wide and a lot of folks lost their lives. After reading all of my parents Kansas City Star (or Times) news account of that fateful day, I go running to the basement the minute the sirens come on. "There's no place like home....there's no place like home".

You must get a chill every time those go off. Tornados are rare in NY, so we don't have the sirens.

My break was for a quick power nap and to watch a PBS documentary about research into toxic venoms created by various spiders, squid, blowfish, scud etc. and their possible use in medicine as painkillers. Also a chemical in one species of gla monster that may prove useful in diabetes research for a medicine to regulate blood sugar. Pretty gruesome, scary critters there, but amazing possibilities. More amazing that some native tribes and cultures have known the value of these toxins from plants, marine and desert animals for years. Biology lesson over and back for some fun 😊

I actually like Eliot Spitzer (not in THAT way) and I think he did something really stupid for being so intelligent. Hopefully he will transcend his very poor judgment: I watched him years ago on fighting big corporations like BP as New York's District Attorney and he was awesome.

Just saw your replies right around here about trying to keep things further south. We should gauge the number of people and from how far they REALLY want to come, and maybe adjust the goals of this gathering - lots of constraints to deal with here - "I'm just sayin'"... 😊

Chris,

...or Woodland Park Zoo in Seattle - they have a raptor show or 2 and plenty of grounds for picnicking - they may have a Barn Owl - I know one of the keepers - I could ask...
We could find each other if we wore hippy-wal shirts and an owl badge of some sort!
What if the weather is like today (drizzly) - we'll need a Plan B of some kind

We too, Jan. I got to know Motown much, much later, and discovered that there was a small army of fabulous gal singers whose careers fell by the wayside once Diana Ross came along. I mourn them, because they were hugely talented and had voices that to my ear were superior to hers! But as in all things, she and the Supremes were one of the great commercial successes of all times, and that is what matters. (BTW, their songs were fabulous!!!!) Two of my favorites who lost out to Diana were Kim Weston and Brenda Holloway. You can find videos of them on youtube. Kim is still singing, although her "Take me in your arms, rock me, rock me a little while", to me, is one of the truly great songs to come out of Motown.

Just an idea of the madness...I was driving my husband to another field, we are way behind planting because of rain, and I swerved to avoid a bird that looked like he was coming straight for the truck. "What the" my hubby yells, and I cried, "she had something in her mouth, it might be a momma going to feed her babies." As he was rubbing the side of his head, which did not look like a bird, I swerved he yelled "you've got this MOD 'stuffed' out the wabzoo and it ain't pretty sster, it ain't pretty!!!!" This told me many things about him but 3 that I can say here. 1) planting season has gone on way too long and nerves are fried, 2) he needs to learn how to sway better, and 3) he actually does listen when I talk to him, he retained the word MOD. Don't know where that is. Is it down closer to Olympia? One person suggested meeting at the park for a picnic and those who wanted to go to the zoo and see the barn owl there could. I'm open to any suggestions. Some people are more sensitive to cost, so I am collecting ideas.

WARNING! SLEEP-TALKING HUBBY STORY AHEAD!

One of the owls was holding a very large treat, and ungraciously trying to down it. I remarked, rather quietly, I thought: "Wow, what a piggy!"

A moment later, hubby yells out: "Pigs? Pigs? There's pigs now?!!!"

May be some of that material that Carbs shirt is made of available for sale eventually. Contact Vacadue a few comments below and let him know so he can judge interest. Also, in the final e-book of comics there will be some drawings and sketches he made along the way, as well as all the public cartoons like the first few that he made and the Punks one.

 Making an avatar really is not difficult.
 1. Click on the grey silhouette to across from Owl Box 2 (the little screen)
 2. A drop down menu will appear.
 3. I picked "Computer" for my source and grabbed a picture file that I had on the computer.
 4. You have an avatar.

 The memory of us will be found in the sound of the wind,
 in the shadows of dreams,
 in the feelings that will remain when we are parted.

Try not to be sad for very long,
 Rejoice that we have had this time, and that you watched us from a time before we knew what we were.

But now we're strong, courageous and free.
 We have been taught well. Our spirit will open as widely as our wings, and we will explore a world where people such as you will watch for us as we hunt and play against the light of a full moon.

 let it remind you of us and reassure you that we are well.

Goodbye, caring friends. Your affection fills the currents that support our journey,

There was a cartoon where Carlos was talking with empty speech bubbles over his head and then Doma came in and gave him a sign to check the sound and the punch line was something like "another use for crystalized ginger." Nobody got it and I still don't.

Secretive soft mouse scampers
Owl on silent wings

Bright lightning flashes
Through rolling, tenebrous clouds
Angry wind coming.

You're NOT nuts, Kristi!! I started humming it immediately! It is "culture", just a different kind 😊 Reminds me of a discussion several days ago about Girl Scout Brownie songs. I hummed some of them all afternoon - especially the "I have something in my pocket that belongs across my face".... 😊

 If you're still here. I would love my avatar included in your collage as I've been here since they were eggs, but my computer won't let me make one. If I use my daughter-in-laws computer, no problem. So I have logged on with her computer a few times but not enough I guess for you to catch it. My avatar is a picture of my basset hound standing next to a watermelon with a drooling, but adorable smile on his face. If I can catch you on here sometime I could have her post it for me. If not, I will have to be content to just be the ole gray mare...er head. Thanks.

 Good afternoon Owls! HOT HOT HOT here in L.A. 😊
 Since the early owl camdays of February we have grown, developed friendships, shared photos, recipes, our lives! What a wonderful, amazing experience. It was not just the baby owls who grew up and changed over time! 😊 😊 Just like Wesley, I feel this is such a wonderful place to be and don't want it to end. 😊
 Such a far cry from our early, "oh look at the babies and doesn't Molly look sleepy!" as we gazed on in wonderment. Now we have all become owle experts and poets. It's been such a wonderful experience, any ideas to keep it going. Squirrel! Cam anyone? 😊

There is no way they could escape the joy we've experienced and by whatever means have sent back their way. They are truly extraordinary and generous and gracious in a home spun way.

Another theory on why Austin is apparently more um, open the last few days than Wes.
Austin has been out flying around at night, expending a lot more energy than Wes. (despite Wes' persistent nightly squawking)
Austin has been eating more during the day than Wes, also. Therefore Austin's metabolism is likely to be running faster/hotter than Wesley's metabolism, keeping his core temp higher. Hence the open stance and gular fluttering, to regulate his core body temp.

Anyone want to shoot holes in that theory?

Well, if Austin's metabolism is better exercised than Wesley's, then I'd say his cooling mechanism would be superior to Wesley's. So I think your theory is full of howls. 😊

Austin and Wes have NO idea how much they are adored. In here is a certain peace, safety, trust, and fellowship exists and it feels warm and fuzzy.

Yet...the fact is we love animals, nature and have already started to share that part of ours lives together. So I do believe we would all enjoy staying in touch. It may not be with the same intensity as when watching the owls. But we can keep in touch. Plus there are so many other SPO sights to view and discuss!!!!

A really interesting thing to do with children is look around in woods or underneath nest boxes to find raptor pellets. Soak them in water to reveal the diet of your feathered friends. One of my owls had 3 mouse Avoles skulls in a single pellet+all the other bones!

I found some in the barn at work the other day - think I might collect a few and see what they contain! I knew a Barn Owl had been nesting in there a couple of years ago but sadly there doesn't seem to be any evidence that it has returned this year - going to keep checking though just in case - it is a perfect nesting site for them

Off until this evening. Some wonderful, unusual screen captures today - thanks all. I've ordered a mouse pad (because I REALLY need one) and the hard-cover book, which I will read and donate to our local library. I guess I'm a "scrooge", but I don't need any more mugs or T-shirts, I have 3 shelves totally full of various cookbooks in a kitchen cabinet and there comes a time in our "Golden Years" when we think more about downsizing "stuff" and less about collecting it. My best "memory books" about this experience are stored neatly in the Wiki site <http://mlyowlbnworks.com/> and on Carlos'BLOG <http://mlyowlbn.wordpress.com/blog/> See y'owlater

Raining raining raining here in Oregon. Went to one of our local parks on the river yesterday. (Willamette River here in Oregon) .. The park is completely under water. Could barely see the tops of the fences of the baseball park. I was in shock. I've never seen that in June before.

What I wouldn't give for rain right now, Darlene! It's 90 here in Bayonne, and disgustingly humid. Some thunderstorms are headed our way, supposedly, but often they bring relatively little rain with them. And now there's a Tornado watch here - doesn't happen very often in these parts! All I want is some rain to cool things off!!
