No, he's not little is he?! Seems like he enjoys standing next to his older sibling up front. He used to be relegated to the back where we couldn't see him so often causing us to worry. I hope he doesn't follow them until he's ready to go. A week makes a huge difference.

I agree, the praying folk have been praying they (V2) get their tornados in areas with no population-just like the one they got last summer in WY out on a big plain. It's one of those catch-22s -- you don't want tornados but you need them to study them to have better predictions because they are going to happen anyway.

Good morning from Atlanta. For the few who can't see all the nightly deliveries, here they are arranged by time, not parent. I'll post them on the wiki as soon as they post here.

May 9/10. Total treats: 8: 8:24p McGee, rat; 8:55p McGee, rat; 9:47p Molly, mouse; 11:36p Molly, rodent; 12:14a McGee, big rodent; 3:37a McGee, gopher; 3:50a Molly, mouse; 4:50a McGee, rodent.

To see the entire box listing the deliveries, make sure your mouse pointer is on the page, press and hold the Ctrl key, and move your mouse wheel forward a few clicks. To return the display to its original size, press and hold the Ctrl key and move your mouse wheel back. (You can also use the + and - keys instead of the mouse wheel.)

Hi, guy. Looks like you're new to the chat room, but you're right about them having until day 80 to learn to fly and hunt extra good before they fly off to find homes of their own. You've obviously been reading the chat for a while, learning as you go. You don't by any chance remember Adam Curry (aka Web Inspector), do you? We haven't seen him awhile and I was wondering if you're him with a new name.

Time for the daily summary of the night's events, to be collected by our friend Latrippi and included in the Moly wiki created by some wonderful volunteers from this chat room. If you would like to add your favorite moment from the night to this summary, please feel free to reply below. The summary is posted at <http://molyowl.pbworks.com/Timeline>. To catch up on past events, be sure to check this timeline out!

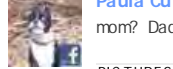

On Sunday, Carlos added a perch above the new camera to give Moly a place to land without knocking the camera out of position. Like she had done the night before. She found and enjoyed the new perch early on in the course of the night. Other than that, no incidents out of the ordinary occurred with any of the owlets or with Moly and McGee.

Hi Monica, Molly had an encounter with the outdoor cam the night before last--bumped it. I guess-- and the camera angle was askew all night Saturday night. Carlos fixed it during the day yesterday. It's a different angle now, and I'm wondering if Carlos put the cam in a slightly lower location on the outdoor ladder so as to avoid future owl collisions.

Good morning from OH! After spending Mother's Day with my daughter at Cleveland Metroparks Zoo, I saw a nature show on BBC America last night about eaglets fledging. It said the parents purposely bring less and less food for the eagles... starting about three weeks prior to fledging... to encourage the them to leave the nest so parents can teach them to hunt. Maybe that's what Molly and McGee will do...?

That camera was in the box when Carlos bought it - he put another one in before he set the box up and he can switch views from his computer so it doesn't disturb the owlets at all - and all the new perches and cameras that have been put up outside don't appear to bother the owlets or Mum and Dad in the slightest - they obviously all feel very happy and secure where they are!

again "like" with a heavy heart - each day will be a new normal and there has always been a day when the person grieving the loss thinks I made it through the day without crying, I made it through the day without being so sad. I made it through the day without my loved one's pain coming to my attention; I made it through the day without thinking of my loss; but never really I made it through the day without thinking of my loved one.

The other day our 4 year old showed us what she has learned. She gathered all her fav. stuffed animals and had us ask questions about the type of animal they were. One line made me chuckle "I'm not an expert on egrets, I just have an egret, it's the first egret we have had and I just read and learn a lot about them. I'll try to answer your questions if I can." Definitely, too much time with Mom at the computer listening to "the guy who owns the owl box" Funny she met a girl at the park the other day and they bonded over the fact that they both watch Molly and McGee not sure how that came up in sand box convo but too cute.

Oh sure, the puppet shows are surely out of left field. They originated one night when Carlos was riding high, having installed two new outdoor cameras, and everyone was in a giddy uproar. We labeled it Carlos' version of SNL. The quirky 'tradition' of stuffed guest appearances has just evolved a little.

Kathryn R - I see that maybe you're still up? Was just wondering how your camping trip was? I think I read somewhere below that you did a bit of "cleaning house". Hoping you had some time to relax in there as well...and have some yummy camping food! 😊

Also read about the eagle bit too - that's pretty cool! How often do you go camping in the summer? Every weekend...or just a couple of longer stays over the summer? Glad you're back - I was gone for a couple of days as well (busy weekend stuff) and felt like I would miss everything. I didn't of course...
But DID miss the people in this chat!

Melanie, yes I am still up. I did have some relaxing time, no worries, and lots of yummy camp food. Steaks on the barbie with baked potato and salad was my favorite of the weekend. I have on my vacation schedule to camp about 12 times this summer/fall. Most will be three day weekends but two of them are a two weekends with a week in between. Next trip is Memorial weekend, that one will be four days.

I missed everyone here too! 😊 (Oh, and most of all the owls!, heh heh!)

Oh that sounds excellent (the food bit...lol). Actually the rest of it too! We love to camp also - don't get to go as much as I would like, but when we can we usually try to do a couple of little weekends, and then a whole week thing bookended by weekends, like you're doing. I love this time of year (actually fall is my fav) and when I start smelling people grill out - all I want to do is go camping... lol

I may have asked this before and you prob answered, but I forgot. Do you tent camp or RV? I think you said you have a "permanent" spot that reserved already and you just go there each year...I forget. Sounds like you're all ready for the Memorial weekend after doing you're clean up, so now you can just relax and enjoy.

Yep - I missed the owls too 😊
Yesterday, 22:02:18 - Flag - Like - Reply

Kathryn R

Yes, we have a "permanent" camping spot on the river on the West Coast. We try to get down there once a month in the spring/summer to mow the lawn and relax, but our major time down there is in the fall when the salmon are running and the dungeness crab are in the bay. It's a four hour drive. Memorial weekend we camp locally at all the high lakes around here and fish for trout. Memorial weekend here is the first time you can get to the high lakes without snow, we camp with about 10 couples, 20 kids and 30 dogs, LOL!

Maggie, just want you to know I wish I hadn't been quite so harsh with the smurfs I perceived the other night. The "couple" proved themselves to be very bad indeed so I was definitely right about them, but I jumped the gun on the Nova Scotia "bugman." Someone had been on earlier that day with "bug" in the name who proved to be malicious, but it was not the same as "bugman." Anyway, I'm only on personal smurf patrol for the time being. I have taken myself off community alert. Just wanted you to know I'm not always mean. 😊

It's not so much a hunger call as a "Hi momand dad, we're here and know you're out there. Keep up the good work 'cause we need to eat!" kind of call. It's not necessarily the one at the door doing the calling, either. Sometimes we hear the call when no one is at the door.

Ledging In Your Own Time

(with apologies to Carly Simon)

Well I have known you, since you were a small egg
Back when Moly used to say, "Well my Max is gonna grow up
And be some kind of mouser someday."

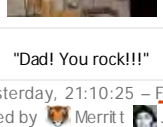

Then you venture out like Elvis and squawk with the owlets in the box
Your mama would say to you,
"This isn't exactly a show biz flock."

But you're a ledging in your own time
A hero in the flash lights
Teasing talons catch the starlight
But a ledging's only a lonely owl
When he branches alone.

I'm afraid there is not a way to change it in Chrome that I've found. I've looked desperately, believe me. Firefox allows you to change the setting, but it's hidden away. When I view the site in FF I see a 12h format. 😞

Ah...so THAT'S what was happening...I was wondering about that too. I've noticed ever since I switched from using Safari to using GC, that I too was getting military time. I thought maybe it was a "new" thing they were trying at SPO. Was going to ask how to switch that, but I see there doesn't seem to be a way...at the moment.
