Live Barn Owl Nest Box Cam - San Marcos, CA

This is a live feed of a wild female barn owl named Molly. The owl box is located 15 feet off the ground. The male (McGee) has a white chest and face. He usually shows up after dark but has spent an entire day with the female. For more information about the owls and this cam. Click Here Click Here to "Like" us on Facebook.

Just checking in... read some in the basement, watched the video with Austin taking flight (yay!), looked at blog pics, ect. I see there was a problem with the young uns posting "mindless" stuff again today.... they did the same thing yesterday on the African waterhole camera... We e-mailed HF, who took care of it. Hope it doesn't get worse. I feel a little "lost" sitting here looking at this box... miss the owlets already! Guess I'll have to check out the other cams, then find something useful to do (ugh). 😊

I'm astonished that I have just spent the last three hours on and off watching the outside of a box!!! I reckon Carbs and Donna have done this on purpose - rather than making us go "old turkey" (or owl), they clearly recognise that we all have MOD and are trying to wear us off gently 😊 Anyway I'm off with the girls now - may pop back later if it's not too late - and I still have the ability to type 😊. Lots of room, pick of the treats, a lot of observational time to figure out how this flying thing works (or doesn't!), and then tak time in the morning with the others to catch up on all the activity! And in addition, he has everybody worrying about him and exclaiming how cute he is... Yep, he's the youngest, all right!

Excuse me?? No, I don't think so. Just someone who tends to be a perfectionist. The only reason I even said anything in that case is because the person herself said she didn't know which it should be - so she brought it up. Otherwise, I wouldn't have said anything. I try not to correct other's typing or grammar here, what with the inherent typos in this type of system. I make plenty of them myself.

I did see that. I'm sorry it takes you so long. I never send more than a half hour, even when I do a big 12 hour one. It must be maddening for you. Let me handle the overweight time periods, if you like. I have no problem reaching the basement floor most days.

That said, I tried to go back even farther, to 5pm yesterday, after I made the PDF through 11pm last night. I got as far back as 6pm yesterday and the SPO server borked out on me. It started sending me comments from March 17th! And many of the comments were SPAM/Smurfs. I saved that monster of all PDFs as a little memento.

Still around but increasingly turned off by the decline in content and tired of repeatedly answering the same questions. I held out for a long time but guess I reached my limit a few days ago. Plus, some semi-bizarre hero-worship stuff. I knew it was over the edge when I saw someone post a question and someone else replied that they COULD answer it but they would wait for another person to get on; implying that their answer would somehow be more valid. How did we get to THAT?? See? I'm too grumpy to be here. I'll just fade to the background again. 😊

...if I should even bother watching it, for one thing. I love Charlize Theron but, the film's not my usual fare.
Being a science geek though, I also see other pertinent connections in that phrase. Have you ever contemplated aeon flux?

Aeon Flux - was addicted when it was anime. The movie was OK and Char'ze was definitely up to the task (DH would say she was perfect, with eyes glazing over, best in contemplation LOL), but I loved the anime. There are some things the movie just couldn't capture.

No, Carlos and Donna are out of town today and tomorrow, so they left the outside camera on so that we could see the flying/branching tonight. One of Carlos' computers went kaput yesterday, so that's why there has been no owlbox 2. I'm assuming that one of the things they are doing is going to get a new computer, and working on the camera set-up, etc. We are all hoping that there is nothing wrong, and hope they have a good two days off!

BONNIE??? Sorry to yell, just wanted to make sure you saw this, haha. Regarding your starling, I think that's what you said it was, if you live in California, DO NOT take it to a wildlife center. Fish and Game put this species down since they are predators to a lot of our native song birds. Just keep putting it back in the nest, especially if it is still very small. It could be starting to fly and they will fly to the ground at first. If you have cats, please try to protect it. I know it's a bit to do but if it keeps getting out of the nest, that's all you can do.

Well, let's see...

It all started with a few people getting upset and vigilant because some of the younger crowd here likes to change their name frequently. It seemed that anyone who used more than one name was automatically judged to be deceptive and untrusted. (some are, but not all) Anyway, I began using different locations to change my name, ushg little twists of language and play on words.

Then things snowballed!

Kristi delighted everyone with her abomination of a misspelling on abominable snowman. I had used a cartoon snowman in one of my photo manipulations since I thought the little guys looked like snowmen. Kristi's misspelling gave me the idea for owlominable and the rest is history. 😊

I saved that conversation in one of the PDFs from yesterday. I was hoping to add to the discussion last night, but things were entirely too fast paced and of such little substance that I didn't bother. It would be nice to have two pages for this camera. One for all the low-level chitchat and another for more substantial dialog. Maybe next year.

Why feel sorry?? He was the first to eat and had the whole place to himself. Sounds like heaven to me. Besides, he hung out at the door and watched lots of observation. He's likely learning from all the others' mistakes and might just surprise everyone when he flies out the door doing barrel rolls. 😊

Does this mean I should leave him/her? Is he learning to fly? There are a lot of cats in my neighborhood, so it makes me a little nervous. Any advice would be appreciated. Thanks.

My mother had an oriole fall out of a nest in their yard. She nurtured it and tried to release it. It flew back to her every time. She kept it in a huge cage. In the spring the male would come to a window and sing. She had this bird for 8 years. When we buried my mother's ashes under a beautiful tree an oriole was in the tree above us singing. It was truly beautiful.

"Pac-Man" is a game featuring a yellow dot-gobbler which scampers through a maze and avoids ghosts until he eats the "power pellet," which allows him to turn the tables and hunt them down while they are vulnerable.

Correct me on this if possible. So far it appears to me Max is actually Maxine, a female. Pattison is male with the solid white breast and smaller stature. Austin is another female and the jury is still out on the gender of Wesley? It is easy to change Max to Maxine, Pattison to Patty if needed, but how do you rename Austin with a more feminine name? Augustine?

Is it possible that the 4th picture on today's blog is Austin finishing his initial leap? In that picture the owl in question is clearly going to miss the perch, which is what Austin did. And the file number for that image indicates it is the earliest of all the 3-owllet shots.

Oh. Since butterfly says one of the other 2 was on the roof, then that is NOT a pic of Austin's first try.

when austin flew down... then the one on the roof flew down too... I wonder what was happening down there... was he trying to help austin? the one on the perch looked concerned too... and as soon as austin made it up to the perch... the other one flew back up to the house... wish there'd been a camera down there... curious...

Oh, no! The Royals are out of town today?!?!? Sure hope they have hired a sitter to watch over the Owl House (never mind their own house)!
I'm totally bummed I missed all the excitement with Austin last evening because I figured he would make a run for it!! I was on around 8:00 CDT and had to get out because of all the annoying posts. It wasn't Smurfs but people acting like Smurfs! Then I didn't get back on b/c I was dealing with a sick child at home. Guess I'll need to stick to times when I know there's people of higher intelligence watching (eg: You die-hard MODS!!!!).

Thankfully I was still online here on the East coast and caught Austin's leap of faith! Looking at the pictures on the blog you can really see how much of a leap it was. He's a little daredevil. They are all probably having a meeting right now telling Wesley to not do what Austin did.

 Good morning, last night was sure exciting, especially seeing Austin leap out of the box. I almost leaped out my chair when he did that. He didn't make it to a landing though but did get up to the bar after awhile. What was really heartwarming was seeing Max or Pat go down to the ground and show him how to jump up to the bar. I had to leave after that but felt all was good. Looking forward to tonight's happenings.
