How're those smores, Melanie? 😊 I just bought marshmallow, chocolate and graham crackers today for our camping trip this weekend. Kind of bummed, though, the weather will only be in the mid-50s to mid 60s with showers. HOWEVER, it makes for great campfires and marshmallow roasting at night!!!

I'm campfire envious!!!... Smores just aren't the same unless they've been toasted to perfection over a roaring, crackling fire....

Sorry about the weather however... We are due for some beautiful 70-80 degree weather here. Wanna trade? I so want to go camping now!!! 😊

I just KNOW you're going to have a wonderful time no matter what the weather! Ever make a smores with Recess Pieces butter cups for the chocolate part? I hear it is divine... I have yet to try it.

Good night good owl friends. I'm so glad I got to see Wes bound from the box tonight. Saw him sitting on the perch and go back in this morning, but missed the part where he stepped out. Tonight completed the experience for me. I will see you tomorrow as the excitement continues.

Had to look it up - Most barn owls have a relatively short life span. Many only survive one breeding year. The mortality rate may be as high as 75% in the first year of life. In one study, the mean age at death for 572 banded birds was 20.9 months. However, the longest recorded lifespan of a wild barn owl is 34 years.

IS THAT TRUE???? Barn owls only have a life expectancy of 2 years??? For all they go through, I would think it would be longer.
Today, 23:09:47 - Flag - Like - Reply

Mary Carroll
In captivity, they can live up to 20 or more years. There is a REALLY HIGH death rate the first year. I figured that if they only lived 10 years, 8 out of 9 owlets die the first year to hit the 2 year life expectancy (you see the same thing in human life expectancy in the "olden days" when 1/2 the babies died).

Well, I was challenged by our afternoon crowd when I suggested Carbs sell the owl's pellets in jewelry adornments!!! We got into talking about moose dropping necklaces and such - even kidney stone earrings! I headed out to a son's baseball game and in short challenged to be creative! HONEST I was going to string sunflower seeds on dental floss! (but too windy... the seeds blew away!) (but our boys won!) ... so I went searching on the internet!!!!
... and THIS is what I found ... knew my MOD's would be amazed!!!!

Thank YOU, Merritt! I was originally going to write to YOU because you seemed to be the center of the universe online. I'm glad I finally got the courage to try. I guess I'm a bit like Wesley. I made a "Cowlage" of my experience and don't know how to get hold of Carlos to see if he'd be interested in having it available with his mugs and t-shirts. It is a representation of "our" experience of watching Molly, McGee, Max, Patton, Austin, Wesley and of course, Donna and Carlos.

I found a new tool and I love it. It automatically saves each press of the printscreen key to a jpg file, wherever you want it to go. I can "shoot" rapidly fire in full-screen mode and then go back and batch process the images. I've got it set up to append the date and time to each filename as it goes. Makes life so much easier. It's called Snagit - <http://www.techsmith.com/screen-capture.asp>

Im using the trial version.

Wesley, you took the hardest step last night...the rest is easy! Blessing to our owlets and their mom and dad. To all the MODS...don't let any "yahoos" get you down. We all this is a good thing, and Carbs and Donna are so sweet to let us share in it!

Barb The sign was a birthday gift frommy husband. I like it except a lot of wires cross through the sky so we can't plant a shade tree. I gotta admit, I goad him into it sometimes, because he's so darned funny - but it doesn't take much! He's said things like - "Talk me down, Sparky" (I still use that one against him...) "No, the squirrel can't come in" and "Plant the corn, dammit!". He's a corker! Today, 20:04:55 - Flag - Like - Reply storymom RECIPE FOR PRESERVING OWLETS Take 1 large field, 4 adorable baby owls, several trees, a cool brook, a large quantity of field mice and a pinch of pixie. Mix the owlets and trees together and stir frequently. Pour the brook over the pixies. Sprinkle the field with flowers, various grasses and the field mice. Fill the trees with a gentle summer breeze. Spread over a deep blue sky and bake in the summer sun. When done, set away safely in a cozy owl box or tree stump. Wrap securely in awe and store in the hearts of everyone.  I was away during all the postings and I'm glad I was. I had already read views and comments on HER web page and don't like what is happening there. Difference of opinion is one thing and I appreciate that - even good, renowned scientists disagree. But, downright harassment and activism only meant to hurt or harmanother person or another person's views makes my blood boil!!!! Enough said!!!!

 I saved the comments and attachments to read thoroughly later, because now is a time to rejoice and be happy.

 I do a lot of quilting with glow in the dark thread, but dont tell people that when I give them the quilt. I always get a wonderful, fun, child-like reaction from themwhen they call to tell me how surprised and delighted they were when they turned off the lights and saw the pattern of the stitching softly glowing!

 Took my dog, Rose, to be groomed today. After having 4 bumps removed 2 weeks ago, and gall bladder surgery in January, her coat looked like a patchwork quilt. So the groomer did the best she could to smooth things out, but she looks really funny. Better, but odd and not like herself at all. Still, it is more even than it was. 😊 I love her anyway.

 For anyone who saw me post about the cardinal baby yesterday, there is good news! The owner of the cam saw both babies with their parents at the feeder today! 😊 So apparently, either "Ella" was knocked out of the nest by the crow, or she fledged to get away, but she was apparently not harmed by the crow. 😊 It happened so fast that all the viewers saw the crow arrive at the nest and when it left, Ella was no longer there. Anyway, while I know the crow must eat, it is nice to know the little fledging cardinal made it.

I've told some of you that I use this site at the place I work to encourage patients with spinal cord injuries, strokes, head traumas, etc. Today, I had a young man (17 yrs. old) take his first steps after suffering a spinal cord injury due to spinal cancer. He was thrilled, as were his parents and all of the therapists. He looked at me and said, "If the owls can branch, so can I". I wish Carlos and Donna could read this site and know that these little owls have been the best therapists anyone could have!

Hi there! My internet is acting weird. I was having 5th grade graduation practice today (choir). One little girl kept standing on one foot. I was trying to play the piano and listen to their phrasing notes, etc. Well, I started laughing. I had to stop. The kids got upset. Why did you stop? Because you aren't an owl!
Now stand on both feet! The puzzled looks I got! Then I was laughing more! I know they're thinking, that crazy music teacher! 😊

Hi! That's hilarious. Funny how owl thoughts are permeating our everyday lives now. Coming in from the garden I saw some sort of raptor flying overhead and thought, wouldn't it be cool if it was a barn owl...

Hi everyone. I am back for a while. Thanks Lucky, Owb, Merritt, Marla, and Natalie, and all for your concern. Just read down below to see what was going on. X-rays showed nothing, so we go for for an ultrasound tomorrow. I am trying to stay positive, but it is really hard today. At least he is eating a little better. Think it is going to be an exciting night here.

Dear Becky,
I've been going through dog-health issues lately too and I believe you were among the kind, kind folks on this site who offered their support and encouragement. May your animal companion be blessed by all of this great energy! My dog Hap is walking a lot better, without surgery, at least for now....and that's been an enormous relief. I hope Merlin's appetite continues to improve and that the ultrasound shows nothing scary. Thinking of you both.... sending white light and love. 😊
