Gotta go soon, really have to get something done today!!!

I was trying to figure out what it is about watching the owls that gives me such peace in my heart. I think that, as much as Im going to miss the conversations with you all, and the amusement of the site, either from the antics of the owls or the very funny posts, what I miss most is the sense of calm and peace that I get from looking at this picture into their world. Hard to describe. I'll try to put it into words later, but I know that my soul is eased by the time I spend here. Have a joyous, fulfilling day, my friends. I adore you all! Good morning everyone. Looks like another day in the box. I said early on that I wasn't going to be sentimental over the last one leaving and changing my morning routine. Well, I lied. Im going to post this song each morning that I wake to find an owl still in the box. Maybe you'll only have to endure it once more, but I have a strange suspicion you may be seeing it at least a couple more times. Im off to finish the morning PDF. Back in a few...

homeschoolinc post below about nominal bn of Molly for Owl of the Year and Carlos for Champion of Owls at the World Owls Hall of Fame is a great idea. But there is the dilemma of what to use for contact information - requires his home address, phone # and email address. All we have is the Molly post office box, correct ?? And, Im not in favor of posting his email address and phone number here on a public chat room. Today, 07:22:59 - Flag - Like - Reply

Good morning...Im at school again...home puter still down ! So happy to see Wesle Anne...! My daughter and I saw Kris Kristoferson live last night at the Kent Stage...an old converted movie theater in downtown Kent, OH. He was wonderful...just him, his guitar and 2 hrs. of listening to him "pick and sing". Lots of songs about the "human condition" and every day kind of life, the little things...and I found myself thinking of our little owl community and all of you ...this experience and y'ow have meant so much...thank you... I have also been watching the little Dutch owlets and took this snap of them last night.
Look for the youngest little tiny one in the bottom left corner. So very tiny but very feisty too.

This IS someone's post from bald eagle cam2... There's this from the IWS facebook:
We are going to band the West End chicks tomorrow. (Thursday)
We'll try to leave Avalon around 8:30 am, which should get us to the nest between 11 and noon.
Right now the image is cropped on the computer. Before we leave town I'll set it to its full size and you should see all the action on the nest once the "bibb" is cleaned off the lens.

(Remember these nests are in California and the pacific time zone. So 11am pdt is 2pm eastern or GMT -8.

I think, if it had been better, warmer weather, we wouldn't have our sweet Wesley here in this box this morning. I think Wesley is the smartest of the bunch for staying in a warmer, drier place today. 😊 Glad to see her back in the box, though. I really thought last night, after seeing her bring back a rat that we wouldn't see her this morning. Looks like Carlos and Donna will be able to start their vacation this weekend, possibly?

I was saving this for later but I think the time has come to think about saying goodbye. With very few modifications:

Owl be seeing you
In all the old familiar places
That this heart of mine embraces
All day through

In that small cafe
The park across the way
The children's carousel
The chestnut (palm) tree
The wishing well

Owl be seeing you
In every lovely summer's day
In everything that's light and gay
Owl always think of you that way

Owl find you in the morning sun
And when the night is new
Owl be looking at the moon
But owl be seeing you

And speaking of that - I had a thought last night. Do you think that Stacy might have been a bit miffed that Carlos use the name "Wesley"? Do you think she believed that he "stole" the name from her, even if she wasn't consciously aware of being miffed by it? It might explain some of the apparent animosity. Don't mean to start a controversy today. It just occurred to me last night.

I agree JT. This is not an owl in distress! She's where she wants to be and since she's visited The Palms she knows her options but has chosen the owl box. I wasn't able to watch last night for very long but the night before she even defended the box at one point and stopped Austin from entering! LOL - no, she is not hating this at all. Besides, I think she may have a couple rats stashed in there for later.

A friend of mine's little grandson's class had to draw their own Flat Stanley and cut him out and take him on adventures and document the adventures. Some of us in a photo group had her email a copy of Flat Stanley to us and my daughter took him on a kayak adventure and we emailed him the photos to use for the class. On a side note Flat Stanley got a little wet 😊

We took Flat Stanley with us on a trip from OH to OK. We had a lot of fun and found a few museum staff/grandparents who never heard of him and thought it was a great idea. The National Park Rangers all have great attitudes about Stanley and chuckle when we asked if they had ever heard of him. He's a popular visitor at National Parks.

Summary for Latrippi (feel free to help me folks):
At 4:11 am a treat was delivered and Wesley knocked OB1 so you could only see the roof. Shortly after, OB2 went down. Watchers could see only the top Wesley's head and it was very frustrating. As it got light, another delivery was made and Wes took it into the box, then brought it back out to the landing, where watchers could only occasionally see a tip of wing. Wes then went back to the box at 5:15, but hung out in the doorway seeming to be torn whether to go or stay for quite a while. She went in and then came out to peek one more time. Once she was back in again, Carlos came out, waved at the camera, and fixed OB1.

Sounds good, but from my observation this morning, I thought OB2 was down first...maybe I was dreaming. I think OB1 still had a good picture though. I get up at 7:00 a.m. which would be 4:00 CA time.

Oh goodness, set my alarm for every 2 hours last night and there were owls there every time I checked but could not stay up long enough to watch anything. Was in a park at 8:00 EST and I thought I missed it all but then our sweet Wesley showed up and decided to go in the box...he seems really torn as to what to do but the box wins out today at least. Maybe he will be the first known barn owl to live in a box

 Max, Patton, Aust in and me...
 It's all coming to an end, but really a beginning you'll see...
 We have all talked about it... and feel the love you have shown
 How could any of us leave you, with all of this known...
 Just wait watch and see... what is to come next...
 We think you will be surprised... what will be read in your text...
 The sun is rising... it's soon time to nap, you bet...
 But you'd better believe... it's not over just yet!

 Yeah! Why can't he stay awake 24/7 and fix every single thing the very instant that it goes wrong! Why, he should move a cot and a portapotty out there for our convenience! After all, he's had four whole months of nonstop adbn to work the kinks out!

Wonder if this OB- & OB2- tilted business is a ruse by Carlos to start weaning us off the box while the motorhome is idling (Donna at the wheel). He leaves the microphone on to allow our imaginations to finish the story. Then grandson Austin will take over the controls (he's already launched himself into a career or 2) and record the remaining data (including photographs), which will also appear next October, as a book under Austin's name: OWLBOX - The Final Chapter!
Now owl go back to bed with the sound muted (this is for Katel!) and let my dreams carry me even further! Good Morning, yow! 😊

Donuts? Did someone say Donuts????????? I would like a donut please. 😊 Now, I'm gonna have to go down and raid the fridge. I didn't want to have to do this. 😊 Are you happy w/ what you've caused, JH? 😊

James made doughnuts? 😊
And didn't share? 😊
Now we have to think about fresh, warm doughnuts all night 😊
Wonder if they were frosted in Technicolor Dreamcoats!

Guess I'll go to bed now. Kathryn and James - I'll let you handle the PDF. 😊
May try to get up early and be here to see if Wesley comes back in the box. It's only about a half hour before my normal wake up time, so I COULD do it. I just don't know if I WILL do it. Good Night!!! Thanks for all the fish!!! Come back and visit tomorrow no matter what! 😊

Goodnight.
I've tried getting up for the pre-dawn activity and I always miss it by about 15 minutes.
Regardless, we'll be here tomorrow, I'm pretty sure about that. I have my towel handy though, just in case. 😊
