I'll be so sad if Wes isn't in the box tomorrow, even though I know this day is coming. I was just waiting for the day that she actually got her first meal on her own, and it appears that she might have done that tonight. Do you hear the rumbling of the clouds? Sounds like a thunder storm brewing there. I wonder if that will affect coming to the box or not.

Most folks only ever get to see OB1, so Carlos sometimes does either a PIP or a split-screen on that feed to give the less fortunate folks a better look at what's going on. This site (SPO) is the only one I amaware of that shows both video feeds on the same page. We are special! 😊

In 1972, when I was in 8th grade... my sister "introduced" me to a local "rock musician" named Alex Bevan. This is a modification of one of his songs I've been singing to myself all night: "all this time we've been searching, for those we've never met...." Apart from those few crazy gatherings, we haven't met...yet we know...but we can't speak of that which we truly know... it's groanings and written on our hearts which we won't truly know until we do. I'm a prima ballerina, My name is Wess.
I can stand on one leg and do an arabesque.
Or I can stand on both and demi ple'.
The ledge is my stage, I guess you could say,
I possess, ever so full of grace.
And the crowds I draw, just look at this place!

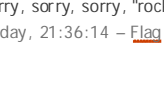

The flash you see, it's just my stage light.
So you catch my performance every night.

Some call me a princess, it simply isn't true.
I am a ballerina, I've just outgrown my tutu.
Will tonight be my grand finale?
Look for me on billboards out here in Cali.

AVATAR COLLAGE ALERT! HOUSTON START THE COUNTDOWN. I will be hopefully finishing the collage for posting tomorrow. Is there a special time I should try to post or just every so often? Hubby and I will be going out for dinner to celebrate 32 yrs of marriage (gasp) seems like just a few years ago we waked down the aisle.
Be sure to look tomorrow for 2 Where's Waldo? and 1 Wow!do.

It's highly unlikely that Wesley caught prey. Even experienced hunters like Molly and McGee don't often get their prey first time around, and Wesley's not an experienced hunter. And Wesley hardly had time to fly over to the field, catch something, and come back in the time span he was gone, anyway.

They can and often do come back to the same box. Sometimes another owl will take it over. I don't believe Carlos has said whether he will go through this again. This has turned into a 24/7 "job" for him and he and Donna, their home and their yard have been in the public eye every day for over 4 months: so I personally wonder if he will do it again in a public venue.

you know, I've seen evidence of Carlos swaying from no, to maybe/we'll see... If he were to do this again I don't think we should expect the same level of interaction, just switch from right to day, Sir, if you please. Additionally, consider that the next adventure may not turn out quite so well. I've heard, but can't bear to check, those other nests which have suffered tremendously. I am thankful for what I've been given, so freely, and don't clamp limitations on Carlos' choice, I've got his back whatever he decides.

We all have laughed and cried, made up poems, songs, drawn pictures and wrote books. But most of all, because of a couple of generous souls, the Royals, were invited to share the life of Molly and McGee and watch them raise together the most beautiful owlets in the world. This has been a true gift of a lifetime for me and I want to thank all of you for sharing it with me. What fun it has been. I truly wish Molly, McGee and the kids all the best. I think someone just came by for Wesley...I could hear the calling, then the fly-over, then Wesley left again.

OK, got as far down scrolling (after posting) about thanks for all the good-byes... not going to go any further, I don't really believe in good-byes - more like - until I see you where the ribbon meets the road - that can't be it, the ribbon is the road, and somewhere it meets the horizon, but really doesn't. God willing we will recognize each other when we're finally face to face.

Oh, I just came up with my plan for Wesley on my walkhanging! I've been trying for days to figure out how to depict her, since in the photo/drawing she's still very young. She's going to be a ballerina! Oh, I can't WAIT until Friday! Max will be my royal Queen, Pattison - a guard, Austin (my fav) is my superhero, and Wes will be a ballerina.

I have said since very early on that I thought the dogs were aware of activity in McGee's palm tree. They always barked just prior to his arrival when he was the only one hunting. Within minutes of their barking usually, he would appear. And now that I know they share a backyard, I'm convinced that's what they bark at.

When the parents were bringing food to the box, it usually signaled that the dogs saw McGee flying. We knew he would soon be making the first delivery of the evening. When we hear dogs bark in our neighborhood at dusk now, we always say "Where's McGee?!"

While we're waiting for the Magic Hour - a helpful hint (and, no, I'm not Heloise). Probably you all have your own way and place for saving links you want to go back to or don't have time to see when they are posted. I didn't want to clutter up My Favorites with them, so I had been posting them in a messy fashion on a word document along with comments I wanted to save, etc. A couple of days ago I started saving the to an open email instead. At the end of the day or whenever I find a while I just send the email to myself. They are there - dated and ready to look at and save in my mail folder if I want to. Not an earth-shattering discovery for sure 😊

Mary, this is great but people are NOT being allowed in. I have listened to three to four rescue bird groups just in my area, and several people who have experience in cleaning up oil spills in other areas of the world. The bureaucracy of BP and our Federal government, EPA, and Environmental groups are blocking individuals, companies, or organizations from coming in to help. America works best with the people coming together, that is when great ideas and innovations are created. Our government and the large companies, unions are NOT the solution but the problem. Write, call and email your local, state and federal representatives who are serving in the peoples' seat and demand transparency, accountability and to allow our citizens to come together to solve this horrific mess. goodness knows the leadership of this country is NOT doing it. Just my thoughts ...

Please read with heartfelt indignation and incredible anger against the oil company. I am for helping the animals affected by the oil spill but I do feel that BP should underwrite every single penny of cost to save all the inhabitants, human and not human. Why ANYONE should have to donate to help recover from this intolerable mess is beyond me. I give to many charities but I feel so strongly that the corporate greed spigot should be turned on WIDE OPEN to reimburse the world for every single litte jellyfish, tar shack, marine vehicle and loss of family and livelihood that has been devastated by this catastrophe. A catastrophe that has been treated by BP with an amazingly cavalier attitude and with great effort to hide all damage and loss of animal life from public view.

Ginger, what is so sad, is another law was just passed and it has to be passed in another cabinet, goodness knows I am losing count here. I am a political activist that has been involved knee deep in many federal, state and local legislation, this law prohibits fishing of snapper and grouper from the Carolinas to mid Florida, yet another blow to our fishing industry. There are so many things going on, that need to be stopped and just looked at by THE PEOPLE and use COMMON SENSE. BP needs to own up but there is a huge clean that needed to be activated over 40 plus days ago not until the federal government catches up or is shamed into doing so ...

Seems to me someone felt their black screen was the nemesis of a loaded computer - ... too much cache in it, too many programs running in the back. Also this time of night SLOWS US ALL DOWN. ... the number of viewers doubles - sometimes triples to see the owllet's leave ... this overload - will often send the "circle of death" ... frozen screens. ... If you should get an image Denise - it's often best to just sit back and watch ... and keep your mouse off the white part ... I'm not sure WHY this is - but it's been advice well taken. I upgraded my adobe, and some have said adding chrome to your system is best - there's another alternative add-on - but I do not recall it's name. I run neither ... good luck.

Also - denise - especially at this time of night when viewing is very saturated ... it sometimes takes a wee bit longer for "posts" "requests" "comments" "likes" "replies" to come through ... often we are down in the basement (reading messages posted way long ago) and it takes a good RAP ON THE FLOOR to bring us up to the main level!!!! (OR TO OUR SENSES!!!!) "patience" my friend, gotta think - "owl" world!!!!

It only takes a spark, to get a fire going and soon all those around, can warmup in its gbwning.
That's how it is with God's love, once you've experienced it, you spread His love, to everyone, you want to pass it on.

What a wondrous time is spring, when all the trees are budding, the birds begin to sing, the flowers start their blooming.
That's how it is with God's love, once you've experienced it, you want to sing, "It's fresh like spring," you want to pass it on.

I wish for you my friend, this happiness that I've found, you can depend on Him, it matters not where you're bound
I'll shout it from the mountain top, I want the world to know
The Lord of love, has come to me, I want to pass it on.

Hi Y'all... Didn't get a nap but, did rest up a bit. Wesley looks like she really likes it in her house.
Speaking as the youngest of 7...I loved having the house without them(at least at first)! Maybe she is just really enjoying having the place to herself.
Anyway, that's my guess why she didn't go back with Austin last night.

Ok Here's the second thing I wanted to say, even tho it's gettng crowded. I would not say "goodbye" last night. Don't know what the morning will bring, mourning? So, if you will pardon my unoriganal thinking, I'd like to leave you all w/ the words to this song, but as you read them (and I know the tune will come to you), think of it also in terms of Molly, McGee and the entire owl experience...

For those who didn't see this earlier:

Don't know if anyone caught Wesley Anne's shenanigans this morning or not, but I caught some on my computer and the rest on my iPod Touch. It was a show and a half! I put them all together with a semblance of a timeline. One of the Pod screenshots recorded the time on it (in EDT). My computer captures automatically recorded the time, so I had that to go by.

Carlos may have posted video and I'll go look and see. (Does anyone know?) I haven't read in the basement because I haven't had time. Sorry!

I've got some double camera screen shots from this morning that I have to clip into single shots and put the time on them, busy day in and out and several projects going on, those are great Robin!

I'd LOVE to see them. I couldn't take the time to capture it well. Wesley was hopping and jumping all around. Her wings were going to town, and it was so obvious she was torn about what to do.

Robin, tomorrow I will download them hopefully for James to pick out and put on the Wiki, got an appointment in the morning and several other things to do, so it will probably afternoon, I have so many photos, I can probably top Christopher Adams in M&Mphotos! LOL! He is such a nice guy. You my dear did verra verra well in capturing the moment. When I get them sorted I will let you know. Thank you for posting all of your great shots, they are NOT that easy to get especially when you are ENJOYING the moment ...

OK, I'm settling in for an evening with the owl(s). I've answered a few questions over on the FB group page. Sorry for not getting to those sooner but my inbox has exploded in the last few days so I haven't been keeping up with everyone. Which brings me to a rather sly point. I've now received a few emails wondering why I have't "Liked" or commented on particular posts here. Yes, I've received emails asking me that. As hard as it may be to believe sometimes, I really don't read (or even see) every one of the posts here - even if I "Liked" something prior to and after a particular message. This isn't Jr. high, and I don't have a direct connection to my brain from the chat, so if I don't reply to an inquiry/compliment/condemnation, it simply means I didn't see it or take time to reply. It doesn't mean that I have some vendetta against anyone. Capiche?

I personally think too much "liking" goes on here anyway (and I'm an offender). Problems, it really slows things down, and I'm sure it makes your work for us even more difficult. James-son. I'm trying to be more discreet about "liking"--I know it's hard to do. I hope we've all been here long enough not to take it personally, though, if not everyone "likes" a comment we've made.

I'm afraid I'm guilty of "over-liking". I seldom post a "like" to some of the general chat. But, I do sometimes use "likes" as a marker to what I have already read when scrolling way down into the basement. And, I, too, have long stretched that I don't post because I didn't see it.

LMAO @ Lynda C. "Over-Liking"!!!!!! HA! I wonder if this connotation of the verb "like" will find its way into the dictionary, i.e., to "approve a blog posting". I recently said to my sister that someone on this site was so dear, because she always "liked" whatever I posted. LOL

This is really sLLy, several times I have thought of 'maybe I should ...' post a comment thanking all for their great posts and pictures, because when you are trying to do screen shots or just watch so much goes on and it is really hard to keep up, but I've thought, they have to be experiencing the same thing so I'll not. When I first came on this site, several people thought I was a agitat or because I was trying to share info that I learned over at the barnowltrust uk site, about the mothers' drowning in cow troughs, I would of never guess, we had cow troughs on my aunt's farm when I was growing up and I would of never thought them to be a wildlife danger but they are ...

Then I wrote my first Haiku, I am a visual artist and really not that great with 'word painting', I had to count and count and make sure it was right ... when I posted I was off a word! Then no one noticed! 😞 No one liked it ...

Someone said something about a Haku and I told them I just posted my first ... no one saw, I did it several times and it got totally ignored! LOL! Then it hit me, everything was moving so darn fast! I think we were all watching McGee, private LeGGs McGee deliver food, I guess you had to be there ... 😞

I've decided that, if I think I "should" do something because it seems like everyone else is and it's the thing to do, I won't do it unless I personally really feel the urge to. And, I try to remember that, you can't please everyone and it isn't our purpose in this life to do so. Please yourself, and if it also pleases others, so much the better. What is that song - "Accept Yourself"?, a nice, boppy little tune from the past? 😊

Take it as a compliment, James - these people need their worth validated by someone (you) whom they and many others respect and admire. And we have here varying degrees of need, some of which is pretty extreme, to be sure.
