Sheriff Web (Adam Curry) Oh gosh... Mom is singing Poker Face gleek version now!!!!

Ingrid I just watched the Wesley eating the whole rat video. She was working on it when I had to shut down this morning. Pretty impressive for our little girl.

CAR that was the rat in the corner - was there something else? I know she was picking apart some "stuff" earlier and eating it - might have been the remains of a pellet...

Ruth - from MN tranquility .....

Sheriff Web (Adam Curry) Peace....

CAR serenly...

Sheriff Web (Adam Curry) bunny. I can't Date till I am married. Words of my own father

P.S I don't do blind dates.

erica OMG! I just watched the "rat eating" video. Incredible.....that's all I can say.

Trisha do you have a link?

Cheryl Melancon Hurstall http://bit.ly/Wesley_Swallows_A_Big_Rat erica I just clicked on one that was posted. If you scroll down you should find it.

Ruth - from MN I'm watching it now - waiting for her to "get'er done"! ...

Trisha Me too. Pretty cool.

Toni Koontz Please don't construe this as a criticism...but I really get a laugh out of all of those who keep wanting to "feminize" Wesley's name - as you also did with Max, Pattison and Austin. I have friends and/or their children, named Max, Pattison (slight change in spelling), Austin and Wesley - and all are very much female. I also have known males named Max, Austin and Wesley - so far no male named Pattison, but it is being considered by one friend who as yet doesn't know the sex of her soon-to-be-born child as she wants it to be a surprise- inspired by watching Mollie's brood.

Names can be interchangeable at times...LOL

Sue from Syracuse Duly noted....

Janeen in TN It's all done with good humor. Have you notice how we try to read the owlets minds too, and type what we think THEY are saying? Silly, silly people we are.

Mary Good evening Everyone! It was fun with you all watching Wes today. Everyday when I leave I wonder if I'll be able to see an owl in the box the following day.

Marla Woody Dillsaver Just watched the video on the mouse eating ordeal! What a hoot. I had given up watching her!!! She almost fell backwards!! Then...that ta!!! HICKKKKKK...then it looked like she smacked her lips when it was all done!!! I laughed and shrieked through the whole thing!! Thanks James....I'll give you a like for this!!!

CAR A new diet technique: The WESLEY DIET - take the video of Wesley downing the rat whole, put it on a loop on your computer, put the computer in the kitchen. Guaranteed to put you off your feed. Lose 10 pounds in ten days!!! Lose your lunch every time you watch it!

Elliott CAR - doRATos (now out of sight). LMAOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!!!!

Natalie Whooo-boy-o...you're in rare form already tonight, Elliott. So glad you arose from the floor last night!

CAR hey, Elliott - the first time I saw someone post "baling" I KNEW you were going to comment - I was SO waiting - and it was priceless!

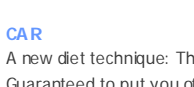

Elliott Cheryl, I've been sitting on that for days!! LOL

CAR HA! Spilt coffee again!

Judy R EEK! I'll never think of my favorite chips in quite the same way again

Carrie McAtee Good afternoon everyone... I just stopping by to check and see what Wes leigh ann (insert female name here) was up to.... thanks for the heads up on the video of wesley swallowing the giant rat James. Always enjoy a good animal crammng their face video! Until I late tonight... adios!

CAR I have two friends (weI, I have more than two friends, but that's not the point...) ANYWAY - I have two separate friends who both ended up owning the houses they lived in because they had bought the houses with a group of friends and lived in them during the 70's in a "commune" style living arrangement. As they each left, they would "quit claim" their portion of the house, so the last one left ended up owning it!

Maybe that's what Wesley is doing - She's channeling her inner hippy. Last owl left owns the house!

Christina Sigvertsen Podvin Yes, I'm back for only a sec! I'm wondering about that myself. That's a great way to get ownership of a house...great story!

CAR One of them was a brownstone in Greenwich Village in NYC - worth a TON of money now!!!!

Elliott No way!!!!

Donna in Dallas time to leave for the day, hope to c weslame and all u peeps in the morning... hope y'owl have a gr8 nite

Ms B Wes might have company...

Ms B There's a birdie on the roof top... hmmdid it hop down on the perch or ledge?

Meta Davidson Waita few for Austin and guess could not be found -- was good to hear Carlos. Usually I miss him! Yeah!! Later all... see you at 10:00 CST

Ms B Gag, choke, puke!!! I'm turning green! Except for their eating habits, I do enjoy the owls!

Sheriff Web (Adam Curry) I don't know what's worse. Listening to mom sing Bad Romance Glee version, or the thought of wes leaving!

bunny Adam! Are you a "Gleek"? My daughter (whom you really should date) and I LOVE that show!

Sheriff Web (Adam Curry) I want to watch it but my mom says it's a little to "adult" for me like the music though CAR Well, a Mom saying that it would be a good thing just ruined any chance of that date ever happening!

BTW, Meta, have you been affected by the spill? Or maybe the better question is, how have you been affected by the spill? I would imagine no one in LA or neighboring states will be unafected. 😊

Meta Davidson
I must hear wind hitting the camera/sound then!!! Was told it did not rain much there this time of year.
Oil spill - a whole other topic. Has not affected me personally as I don't live on the coast but affects us all as we love our wetlands, wildlife and for sooooo many down along LA and MS and AL and FL - fishing is their entire livelihood from recreation to the fishing industry. Never mind sea turtles that house and feed so many birds and pelicans and are nesting areas. It makes us sick. Just plain sick and is very oppressive as BP has seemed in the dark ages trying to fix it. Thanks for asking. It will wipe out an entire ecosystem if a miracle in cleaning up does not happen and at this point does not seem so. Some locals are taking things into their own hands and doing what they can for their area but it is just massive. Better stop here. Huge topic!

bunny
I can't even imagine. I was a girl during the big Santa Barbara spill and I remember how horrible that was. Know that you and the entire Gulf Coast are in the thoughts and prayers of many around the world. I think it's a good thing that local folks are trying to protect their own habitat. Who better, doncha think?
Well, stay safe, Meta, and we can only hope that BP gets their, well, you know! - together and gets it fixed.

The end of this tragic tale has not yet been told. Oil just now really coming ashore. They say there are huge pools of it under the surface in so many areas off shores. I live about 90 miles N/E of New Orleans. The wetlands are a huge sanctuary for many migratory birds also. Never mind sea turtles and other aquatic life. One fellow had 400 head of cattle on one small island and having to move them by boat as the marsh grass becoming deadble. Thanks for asking and for caring. It is heart-breaking and maddening and frustrating all rolled into one ball. And as the tides roll in and the winds blow we will know which directions it goes in. Lordy! A big topic. Sorry if I said too much. Take care.

My relatives in Germany always add a paragraph to their Christmas letter about the animals, including any storks that nest on their building (they live in an apartment in a moated "house", not really what we think of as a castle but it does have that title). The owner has also had geese and there are plenty of ducks that come too.

Saturday, June 26th at Woodland Park Zoo
 Directions and prices available at <http://www.zoo.org/>.
 11 am meet near the gate near the Zoo Store (South Parking Lot). I'll have a sign or something. People can bring a picnic lunch or buy food in the zoo.
 The Barn Owl is in the Family Farm Exhibit. Then at 12:30 there is a Raptors Demonstration: Here's your chance to learn more about birds of prey. Keepers will introduce you to our resident raptors while demonstrating their impressive flying and hunting skills.
 Possible chance for an additional field trip to see the baby Merlins (type of falcon) that one of our Moly Watchers is on fledge watch with.
 If interested, contact me here, or on facebook, or by PM, or just show up.

With apologies to Gershwin: Sung to "They Can't Take That Away From Me"
The way you eat your rat.
The way you scratch your fleas.
The memory of all that,
Oh, no they can't take that away from me!

The way you hork and sway
The way you fly so free.
The way you fight and play.
No, No they can't take that away from me!

We may never, never meet again on that bumpy flight of life
Still I'll always, always keep the memory of

The way you hunt and prowl.
The way came to be -
from egg to lovely owl.
No, no they can't take that away from me!

Yeah - we missed the sack races today, but we got to go to both sponge tosses - kids stand behind wood cutouts and we toss sponges at them. They asked me to get back the cutout. Think they harbor some aggression against me or what? I told them no way - I know where they get the water. Despite my near collision with the ripe old age of 40, I could take you in the sack races. I practice every year. The kids are always impressed. So ...

sack at home or not, I could take you. 😊 We all have to have a talent.

It will be some time before the DVD is available, since Austin needs to finish school and also produce the DVD.

All the money from the sales of the DVD will go directly to Austin.

No preorders at this time.

Send your email to austinafaure@gmail.com - This account has been set up strictly for inquires about the DVD, which will be about 30min long.

I sat here and cried last night, really cried when Wesley left because I really didn't think she'd be back today. I know in the next few days there will be the one when she won't.

But, I have to make myself think about how wonderful it is that these two owls successfully raised 4 wonderful owlets and have taught them everything they can to help them make their own way. And the thing so dear to me is that I got to be a part of this. They have occupied my thoughts and my heart for so long that even when they go, they will still be with me. I truly love our little family.

I agree... I cried off an on all day yesterday. I am sad that we won't be able to observe their daily life. But, I'm so happy they will go on to live happy lives and someday there will be 4 new owl families in the area (as our little ones grow up and pick mates). It is remarkable how they have brought us all together...and such a blessing to me!

I have to go and cook. I only popped in for a minute...will be back later. 😊

I think I remember once, when it all first started, Donna remarked that she looked like a Molly, and Carlos replied that he, then, must be McGee. The kids were named for friends & family, all picked by Donna.

It takes about an hour to an hour and a half away from the nest for safety reasons. They want to be quick to help the chicks not stress too much. They are gentle and calm, use hood over the birds head when needed. But don't drug them. They draw blood to confirm gender and contaminant levels. Put on the leg band, the wing marker, and dual transmitter. Look for them to return about 15 minutes past the hour.

I was just on the other site checking up on the other barn owl. The owner posted a note of how much it costs for so much bandwidth. Wow. I can only imagine how much this is all costing Carlos.

"Specifically, we have been doing well paying a flat rate of $400/month for 2 units of bandwidth. This used to be adequate. But over the last few weeks the bandwidth use has jumped by 10X! This translates into much higher expense and it could easily become several thousand dollars/month to keep the cam going. Please consider contributing."

Carlos is in a different boat. He broadcasts through U Stream, so they incur all the bandwidth costs, not Carlos. And by the way, bandwidth is not nearly as expensive when bought in the absolutely massive allotments that U Stream buys in. Their costs are offset by the advertising they display. I think the Dutch site needs to consider broadcasting through some company like U Stream if they want to keep the cameras running for a while. Otherwise they could require a forced registration to view, and that would be sad.

Some money from all the merchandise was going to the wildlife fund, not the equipment or broadcasting. Carlos did take some donations for the equipment he purchased and used. But, he does not face the same kind of broadcasting/bandwidth fees which the Dutch site is dealing with. U Stream covers all that. That is the only reason he has been able to broadcast to over 14 million viewers. And it's why there must be advertising on U Stream.

 I saw earlier posts about James Taylor and Carly Simon...friends and I saw him in concert at the Palace Theater in Cleveland in...probably fall 74 or winter '75. His last song was "Mockingbird" and everyone was already standing, cheering...when...out of nowhere... Carly Simon was suddenly on stage with him...and he introduced her as his "wife"...WILD sheering...they were magical together! I think they were very very married... (of course...news didn't travel as fast in those days...ponies were so darned slow...) but I do remember we were absolutely thrilled!

 The hit counter on the front page of the Moly Wordpress site is the number of unique IPs from different parts of the world. It will only count you one time, no matter how many visits you make from the same location. It was just something fun he put up to see how many people were visiting from all over the world. No need to go to that page on every visit. He also gets stats on every visit (and every photo viewed) from the blog page itself.

 You were fine with the link directly to the blog page, that is what the person above asked for. It only confuses people when they are given the link to the other front page and not told they then have to look elsewhere for a link to the photos. Keep it simple, I always say.

Hey Guys, I've been working on archiving all the compressed Chat PDFs. I sure wish I had access to the chat bgs for days prior to when we started making PDFs.

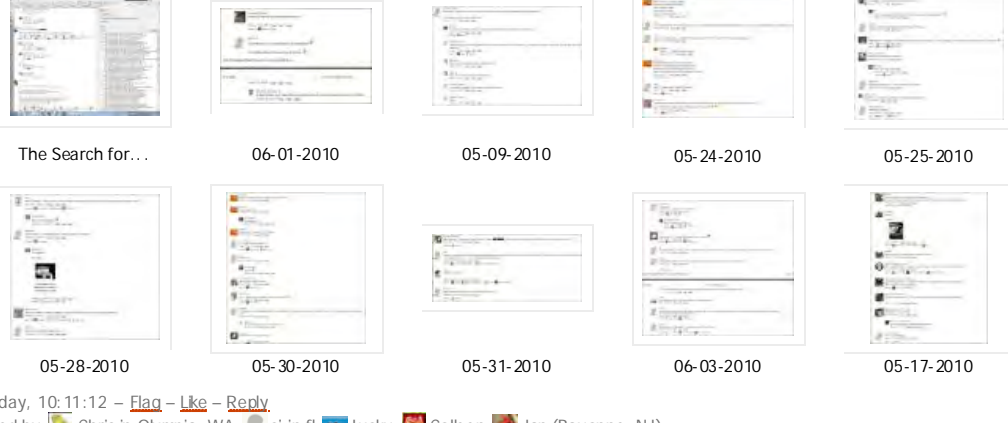

Playing with the PDF search function is a real hoot! 😊

I've decided to make a few fun snapshot collections, and also work up some trivia for the FB page. Maybe we can organize a Weekly SPO-MOD Scavenger Hunt. Hmm?

Anyway, here is something fun. Open the first image first...

Adele, I believe it was decided last night that Wesley swooped down and got a hand-off. As far as anyone knows, Wesley has not caught anything yet. You can bet your bottom dollar that there are no rats around the owl-box area at night, with the presence of all those owls. Wesley would have had to fly to the hunting grounds to catch one, and I noted previously that he wasn't gone long enough to achieve that and get back to the box.

The wind we get here where I live is almost hurricane force. I live in a bit of a valley and when the wind comes through pieces of our neighbours roof comes off. He's too cheap to fix it.

pretty fuzzy isn't it? okay - this sounds horrid - but owls feast on kittens around here - it's rural area - lots of barn cats ... San Marcos must not have many roaming in the streets? I haven't seen nor heard of one being in the box? Any word of the most peculiar treat brought home to Royal Box?

I have yet to hear of barn owls feasting on kitties. Great horn owls, now that is a different story. They like kitties and thy dogs.

Good evening to everyone. It's 17h 52 here and very cloudy but very warm. My book on owls quotes barn owls as enjoying eating frogs, amongst other animals. I expect it depends on where they are hunting, therefore what is available to them. I would just like to say that it has been really lovely being a part of this experience, even though I have mostly lurked. I have looked in most days and evenings since March, apart from ten days or so when we were away on holiday in Alsace Lorraine during the Easter break. Carbs and Donna are truly lovely and generous people and there are many really lovely watchers here too. I wish you all well and would like to add a traditional Celtic saying to speed you on your way in life. "May the road rise to meet! you, May the wind be always in your back, May the sun shine warm upon your face, the rain fall soft upon your fields and until we meet again, May God hold you in the palm of His hand". Well nothing like eating your own "catch"! That's how they learn to take care of themselves. All wildlife have it rough outside. We humans would not survive as well as most outside critters do. They are pretty remarkable!

Hello everyone! I know you are having as much fun watching this owl box and hearing what Carlos has to say each day as I am. This morning as I opened the website to the owl box, I had this overwhelming feeling that the box would be empty and only scraps of carcass to left in the box. I have to tell you I am glad that I still have the opportunity to view this event today. But any day now... 😊 Wes will be on her own too!

I want to thank those of you who I had the chance to converse with - you were fun and I enjoyed meeting our acquaintance. Thank you! Have a wonderful day! I know each of you are very positive and make those you have contact with - their day a better too!

I wanted to draw everyone's attention to the following website, which I hope you will bookmark, and visit often. It is the website for The Raptor Center, established in 1974, The Raptor Center specializes in the medical care, rehabilitation, and conservation of eagles, hawks, owls, and falcons. It is a treasure trove of information, photographs and stories on raptors, and is guaranteed to intrigue and thrill you! My sincere thanks to Lynda C for pointing me to it. I had to share it. I think I will post this now and again so that everyone eventually sees it.

I was trying to figure out what it is about watching the owls that gives me such peace in my heart. I think that, as much as I'm going to miss the conversations with you all, and the amusement of the site, either from the antics of the owls or the very funny posts, what I'll miss most is the sense of calm and peace that I get from looking at this picture into their world. Hard to describe. I'll try to put it into words later, but I know that my soul is eased by the time I spend here.

Have a joyous, fulfilling day, my friends. I adore you all!

I also get a sense of peace and calm, the easing of my soul, Car. For me, those things come from the feeling that I rejoin the true circle of life in all its extensions, not just the human one. A sense of balance restored to the homocentric world that we spend our days in. It feels a lot like "coming home."

That's it, Jan! I felt it the strongest when I was in Africa - and while others were running around trying to see "the big five", hubby and I (and an amazing guide) would just sit and wait, watching to see where the day would take us. The sense of being in my natural place in the universe was profound. And the things we experienced because of it... indescribable. It truly changed the way I see myself in the world, and now I find that the owls are giving another piece of that universal puzzle. What a gift! And what a wonderful life I've been given - now with all of you in it as well. Grateful every day...

Good morning everyone. Looks like another day in the box. ☺

I said early on that I wasn't going to be sentimental over the last one leaving and changing my morning routine. Well, I lied. I'm going to post this song each morning that I wake to find an owl still in the box. Maybe you'll only have to endure it once more, but I have a strange suspicion you may be seeing it at least a couple more times. I'm off to finish the morning PDF. Back in a few...

homeschoolinc post below about nomination of Molly for Owl of the Year and Carlos for Champion of Owls at the World Owls Hall of Fame is a great idea. But there is the dilemma of what to use for contact information - requires his home address, phone # and email address. All we have is the Molly post office box, correct ?? And, I'm not in favor of posting his email address and phone number here on a public chat room.

Good morning ... I'm at school again... homeputer still down ☹! So happy to see Weslie Anne...! My daughter and I saw Kris Kristoferson live last night at the Kent Stage... an old converted movie theater in downtown Kent, OH. He was wonderful... just him, his guitar and 2 hrs. of listening to him "pick and sing"... Lots of songs about the "human condition" and every day kind of life, the little things... and I found myself thinking of our little owl community and all of you ☺
...this experience and y'ow! have meant so much... thank you... "sm!"

This IS someone's post from bald eagle cam2... There's this from the IWS facebook:
We are going to band the West End chicks tomorrow. (Thursday)
We'll try to leave Avabn around 8:30 am, which should get us to the nest between 11 and noon.
Right now the image is cropped on the computer. Before we leave town I'll set it to its full size and you should see all the action on the nest once the "bbb" is cleaned off the lens.

(Remember these nests are in California and the pacific time zone. So 11am pdt is 2pm eastern or GMT -8.

I was saving this for later but I think the time has come to think about saying goodbye. With very few modifications:

Owl be seeing you
In all the old familiar places
That this heart of mine embraces
All day through

In that small cafe
The park across the way
The children's carousel
The chestnut (palm) tree
The wishing well

Owl be seeing you
In every lovely summer's day
In everything that's light and gay
Owl always think of you that way

Owl find you in the morning sun
And when the night is new
Owl be looking at the moon
But owl be seeing you
