Live Barn Owl Nest Box Cam - San Marcos, CA

This is a live feed of a wild female barn owl named Molly. The owl box is located 15 feet off the ground. The male (McGee) has a white chest and face. He usually shows up after dark but has spent an entire day with the female. For more information about the owls and this cam. Click Here Click Here to "Like" us on Facebook.

Kristi from VA Okay - I'll confess. We had to go in two cars. The lady's house was way up on the mountain. One lady had to leave as soon as we were done due to a commitment. I told her - I'll go with you. I am just so tired from work this week. I need to go home and go to bed. I CANNOT tell these people I am coming home to stare at two owl's sleeping which is exactly what I am doing. They will think I am nuts! At least you all understand me!

Kristi from VA True sign of MOD? I was at Bunco thinking roll faster, roll faster! Eat that dessert faster, come on. Come on. Let's go. Let's go. I have to go see the two owls. I have not gotten my quality time in today. I shouldn't complain - I won the big money pot. However, I think I have finally realized the extent of my obsession!

Hello everyone and everyowl!
I had a nice dinner with DH, now I've got the laptop sitting on the corner of my serving table, I'm working on a wedding quilt for my niece, I have a sleeping Sheltie at my feet and I'm watching a show about hippies on the History Channel. Life does not get much better than this.

Natalie, I am deeply in your debt for having introduced me to tractor blue grass. I've shared with all my classical music friends, and we're hooked! This video of these guys playing Sweet Georgia Brown is truly world-class! I would dearly love to see them and their tractor on stage at Carnegie Hall (I mean that!)

It is not absurd at all. It is a natural, soft, metronomic percussive sound, a perfect foil for the blue-grassy twang of the git-tars. Those Swedish guys are masters - no mere amateurs! I can't imagine they don't perform professionally or semi-professionally somewhere.

Natalie

Elliott, I too went through many of those videos after seeing the first one Natalie posted. I put one on my FB wall and have had a few people give me strange looks. I still think it's great! I'll be asking at the folk music festival here next month if we can't arrange for a similar act in the coming years. Several of the regulars would love to do it. And, since this is an outdoor festival full of and run by hippie tree-huggers, we just might be able to tie it in with the Green Bio-fuels Awareness campaign.

Speaking of Sweet Georgia Brown, the recording of Anita O'Day performing that masterpiece at the 1957 Newport Jazz Festival is one of the great treasures of Western Civilization. Damn! I posted an answer to this 20 minutes ago. Where is it? The avatar is NOT paleozoic. It is Ch'ing dynasty (I suppose) - a Chinese jade amulet, pierced at the top to be worn as an ornament in any number of ways, I guess. It's about 2 inches long and very lovely. Not at all valuable.

Patricia, with Owls and most other raptors, the female is usually larger than the male, sometimes a lot larger.
Most people here now speculate that Wes is female, but there is no way to tell that for certain until after the second molt (other than a blood test.)

In the basement, you asked me to put my fruit salsa recipe on the Facebook site. I do not have a clue how to do that.

I tried to answer you and the #%$*&@ site here dumped me just as I was ready to punch the "post" button.

Here is my fruit salsa recipe (again) for 2 people

1 peeled tomato, corn cut from 1 microwaved ear of corn (shucked after being microwaved), 1 unpeeled white peach (can use yellow), 1 med onion, and one not-too-ripe peeled mango.
Cut everything (except the corn) into 1/4 inch cubes. Stir everything together. Add 1 teaspoon Cotija (Mexican cheese - can use Parmesan), as many shakes of ground hot red pepper as you want, fresh lime juice (to taste), salt (to taste) and stir. Eat.

A few questions about things I have missed in the past.
How many people actually showed up at the San Marcos Picnic?

Did HF ever answer the question of whether this was the most watched video ever?
What will HF put in The OWL Box's place?

And finally am I the only one that hears fiddling noises on the owl box is Carlos building stairs or is Donna putting on a padlock so she can lock the birds out once they leave tonight?

I think I remember various figures of 200 - 300 showed up to the picnic. I don't think I got an answer from HF. I asked if this was the most watched site ever (but it stands to reason that it might be - only the raptor sites continue for 4 to 4-1/2 months, whereas Hummers, bluebirds, etc. are just a few weeks). I also have heard that SP will leave this site just as it is for a while (probably will be staring at an empty screen but it will be a "jumping off" spot to visit other sites.)

James - I have to tell a story -so this is my longest post:

I was laughing at the owl antics early this morning, and realized that I was going to wake hubby, so tried to keep it down.
Hubby, still sleeping - mumbles: "Quiet! You'll wake the owls!"
Then a few minutes later, adds "They'll just start screeching again..."

It was a great way to start the day!!!!

Hey, BOSS-MAN, if you're there:
Adam: I've been trying to think of an appropriate song for our new sheriff....but all I've been able to come up with so far is this old song called, "I Shot the Sheriff." Somehow, it isn't really the message I want to convey 😊...but it's still a good old song! This is a newer version of it by Eric Clapton, dedicated to THE SHERIFF! (These are the beginning lyrics...notice that you get shot, but the deputy doesn't 😊):
I shot the sheriff
But I didn't shoot no deputy, oh no! OH!
I shot the sheriff
But I didn't shoot no deputy, ooh, ooh, oo-oo-oh.)
Yeah! All around in my home town,
They're tryin' to track me down:
They say they want to bring me in guilty
For the killing of a deputy,
For the life of a deputy.

...and here is a link:

Mike was my favorite doggie of all time, and he wasn't even mine, he was my friend's. She adopted him from a Corgi Rescue association, and he gave her 11 years of bliss before he died several years ago. He was the sweetest dog I've ever known. The thing I loved about him were his 'feathers.' I'd never seen feathers like that on other Corgis, so I thought perhaps there might have been a little hanky-paranky on his mother's part with a border collie, but other than that he was Corgi to the nth degree (including his back problems.)

Kasey - if you're thinking about getting a Corgi, try to find a Corgi Rescue association in your area! Those little guys really, really need homes! I amnot a Corgi owner (wish I was), but my good friend is. She has adopted two of themthrough a rescue association.

I think I have an addition. My friend wants to visit on Monday and I am trying to find a way to tell her she can't because I want to be able to watch the owl cam before it gets shut down. I have a problem and I admit it, this is the first step to recovery.

He said Donna was still sleeping and he could hardly wait to see her reaction when she hears that there are now 2 owls again in the box. She walked into the kitchen, and Carlos told her, you could hear her bughing....

Well I am going to be the lone dissenter here and say that bog 1 looks really small and 2 really should have had some perches and things. They are barn owls and barn owls in barns practice flying and jumping for weeks before they fledge. I'm just saying I think a fledge ledge and perch would have been helpful.

CAR: here is an anecdote my friend told me as we walked along the beach today. (true story) A mutual friend of ours, a band director, brought his band down from Md-AL to play in a Mardi Gras parade. Then, they went to the beach. One boy stood and just stared. When Jim asked him what he was thinking, the boy replied, "That's the biggest pond I've ever seen."

Lynda C Becky, 2 questions about your pork chop recipe. About how much apple cider do you use? To the top of the chops? Up over the hash browns? I think a posting earlier today mentioned that she had tried it and I thought she may have used too much apple cider. Fresh apple cider is very seasonal here (in the Fall). I think I think the supposed "PS" on the bigg today is just so they get more hits at their store. You are probably right on your assumption. This is all contrived drama. It is really sad to see a grown up act like this, i suspect major problems in dealing with reality. A very sad sad situation from where i see it all, and so pointless to boot, it is doing more harm to them than harming others, which really is a good thing, because i so dislike seeing very good people who have shown such great sincere and genuine generosity to others and are so giving in all that they do, be they the most content of these. Again these are just my thoughts.

Here is a good and easy recipe for those huge zucchini you get, (or are left on your door step by well meaning neighbors). Slice them about half an inch thick. Slice a large onion into rings. Sauté both in some butter, oil, or Pam in a non-stick skillet. When soft, take off heat, put shredded or sliced cheese on top and cover with the lid or foil until cheese is melted! I know it is not heart healthy, but it is good!

Sleep little owlets in the owl box.
When the wind blow,
Your eyrie then rocks.
When the night comes,
You'll fly to the tree
And start life's adventure
And "owl" it can be.

Maybe it's just me, but am I the only one wondering why he/she returned. Don't get me wrong, I am thrilled because I'd like to see them both there, but is this typical? Do barn owls sometimes leave and then come back to where they were hatched? Is it possible that these two have a special bond?

For the people who want to know what the quarrel with the other owl group is about, I will second James' recommendation in the basement. Here is a photo of Stacey's web page. You will get some idea of the issues if you read through her blogs.

Some of the people here are just tired of the fight and want to enjoy our last days with the owls but I, too, at one point was saying "What is going on?"

I haven't formally checked in today, so, "Hi y'ow!" My household is insanely saturated in World Cup soccer fever, and we were up early to watch the two first games of the tournament. We were rooting for South Africa to win against Mexico (solely because they're the host country) but they tied 1-1. Then we were REALLY rooting for Uruguay to win against France because that's my husband's home country, but again the game was a tie, 0-0. Anybody else interested in soccer??

Hi George. We are also on EDT. Makes for very early games! Tomorrow's game with USA & England should be a good and very competitive one. My heart lies with Brazil ever since I lived there and had our first child in Sao Paulo. So I'm a Brazilian fan thru' and thru'. But for now I'll root for my husband's team which, sadly, I don't believe will make it to the next round. In the end... may the best team win. 😊
