Live Barn Owl Nest Box Cam - San Marcos, CA

This is a live feed of a wild female barn owl named Molly. The owl box is located 15 feet off the ground. The male (McGee) has a white chest and face. He usually shows up after dark but has spent an entire day with the female. For more information about the owls and this cam. Click Here Click Here to "Like" us on Facebook.

URGENT...JAMES ARE YOU ON? RE:AVATARIA AND ERICBLHM'S E-BOOK
If your suggestion about the "editorial use" will stand, I think that's the only solution.

It would be helpful if you could get in touch with Eric directly as it sounds like you have much more expertise in this area than I.

Thank you so much. Kathleen

There isn't really anything for me to do there. The publisher knows all the laws, they have to. They will ask if there are releases for all the photos of people and Eric will say no. They then have to decide if they can use the material in an editorial fashion or not. I can't offer any more than that because I don't publish books, only individual photos. They will know what to do.

The © symbol does not need to be displayed on a work for it to be copyright protected. That has been the case for many years. As I said earlier, copyright is a complex set of laws, the publisher has to know what to do, and it's best handed by them.

If it comes down to it (highly unlikely) I'll gladly sign a release for the use of my image, but I don't think they'll ask for any of that. It would be impossible to obtain them for everyone anyway.

Good evening everyone. I'm signing in and out quickly this evening because it didn't happen at all last night. We got home from the hospital and the remainder of the day was crazy!! I woke in the night (several times) and felt guilty for not checking in on the owls earlier.

Glad to see so many MODS already in the lineup for tonight's game. Here's Bby Lyda's day 5 picture, and a picture of how our dog feels about the whole situation.

Enjoy!!

Good evening: Here we gather again to see what drama will appear. Our dear little owls are sure giving us a little more time to enjoy them. I find it amazing how much has transpired since this site began. Books are being made and sold along with merchandise with some of the profits going to help the nature center in San Marcos. Hard working talents are making monies from their talents while giving us memories to cherish. A song was written and now is shared by many and the teacher might get a break now too because of the owl box. Some profits are now also going to help the birds and animals in the Gulf Coast. What a great country this is and look what has been accomplished all because of a little wooden box with a camera in it. None of this would have happened without Carbs' and Donna and for that I will be forever grateful plus all the great people I have met here and enjoyed so very much.

Mary Carroll (the Shadow) I do not know if anyone decided whether it was legal to use the avatar poster in a book. I tried to look up the rules, but I do not know the answer. If a photo is Photo shopped, is it still copyright ed? The photo below is part of what I found.

Colleen That is why James mentioned editorial use. Today, 19:43:52 - Flag - Like - Reply Liked by Jan (Bayonne, NJ)

JH (in Technicolor Dreamcoat) The topic is really much too complex to hash out here and there is no exactly right or wrong answer. That said, the publisher likely won't use the collage unless they are friendly with the editorial use provision of the copyright laws. There are many, many, many copyright protected images in that collage. Not to mention getting personal releases from all the actual people whose photos appear. Memphis Debbie Hello everyone! My 10 yr old went to a workshop today at a conference I went to and the workshop was called "Owls eat who?" He loved it and said he just about knew all he ?? that they asked! He got to see a live owl, touch some tabns, (which were like needles!) look and touch some owl feathers and compare them to other feathers (they were very soft which helps them fly silently) and he learned all kinds of stuff! He also got to dissect a pellet tool! The funny thing was, as we were standing in line to get our food for lunch he reached into his pocket and says "here mom", I stuck out my hand and the next thing I knew, I was holding a mouse skull, bones and bits of fur!! Yum, just in time for lunch!

Hey, can't hang out tonight. I will be around tomorrow and on. I hope that A&W fly and hunt tonight 😊 Thanks so much for the pdf files so I can "catch up tomorrow". Kathleen, I think it's great about the poster and Blessings on our wonderful owls and all who love and watch over them. Have a great night 😊

P.S. I'll never listen to "I Love the Rainy Night" again without picturing Wesley wet sitting outside the box 😊

 It's nice to see a face. Someday I will learn how to get a picture instead of a shadow.

 Linda, up where you add original messages, click on your shadow avatar. you'll see a pop up menu that lets you select a picture from your computer. Quick and easy! Try it!

 Ok I see what you are talking about. Problem is this is a new laptop. Pictures are in my old computer. I will try later to do what you mentioned. Thanks for your help!

 Easy to do, just click the head above the box where you post. A drop down box will open and you can hunt a pic off your computer. Better try while it isn't too busy here in case you need more help!!!

 Hello everyone and everyowl!
 I had a nice dinner with DH: now I've got the laptop sitting on the corner of my sewing table, I'm working on a wedding quilt for my niece, I have a sleeping Shellie at my feet and I'm watching a show about hippies on the History Channel. Life does not get much better than this.

 Well, they do live in California! I'm sure their owl box could use a little sandlewood incense.

 Owlo - how do you manage to do SO many things at once ????. Just he nobe of the TV going downstairs while I'm here ckies me nuts. And to even think of quilting and watching at the same time bogges my mind. Maybe that's why people tel me I have a one-track mind
