Live Barn Owl Nest Box Cam - San Marcos, CA

This is a live feed of a wild female barn owl named Molly. The owl box is located 15 feet off the ground. The male (McGee) has a white chest and face. He usually shows up after dark but has spent an entire day with the female. For more information about the owls and this cam. Click Here

Good Afternoon,
Remember the virtual picnic? How about a virtual masquerade party in honor of the owls, Donna and Carlos etc.? Or some other celebration?

Thanks, Kathleen. I do remember Phyllis Diller being on TV when I was little but really don't remember anything about her. Same thing with Laugh-In and Love, American Style. Those shows were on in my childhood and my family watched them, but I was a wee thing (as JL likes to say) and only have fleeting impressions of them.

Oh, my, that was funny! Brought back memories, cuz I think she was on Ed Sullivan a lot when I was a little girl. Plus she used to perform in San Francisco at clubs like The Purple Onion, and my parents (who were kind of hip in the sixties) would go see her.
She's a hoot. Thanks!

Took a long walk with DH and the dog this morning and the talk turned to the owls (big surprise, huh?) He commented that for the past almost 2 weeks I haven't told any stories about strife on the chat. Nobody mad at anybody, not much about smurfs, trolls, etc. I hadn't thought about it but he's right. I guess as we got closer to the end, the petty differences didn't mean as much as the owls meant to us. Even the smurfs got tired of how peaceful this site was! We'll never be able to adequately explain this experience to anyone who wasn't here. Seriously, you people rock.

I was just thinking about that last night, how most of the instigators had left or were so obvious that they were of little consequence. I think many of them were moving on to more fertile soil. At least I know there's a lot of manure being spread elsewhere. Others, I guess, are on vacation and too busy to bother with the crazy owl people. Whatever the reason, I'm thankful 😊

The way people are scrolling up when they hear a sound, hoping that it will be the owls? I'm doing the same, but I'm also scrolling down, hoping to see my favorite avatars, and to read the posts, and the responses. To read posts that make me laugh so hard I spit, or smile with recognition. To read someone's heartfelt words, and discover that there are people who have been here for months, and are only now telling us that they will miss our friendship. To respond to someone who has a question, or needs support. To read wonderful stories, and look at fabulous pictures. To tease our friends, and wish each of our sweet dreams.

I know we have the Facebook page, but it's not the same, somewhat. So I will scroll for a while, still, just as I will listen for the owls. And I will try to remember that I have an owl box full of memories, and a heart full of warm thoughts for my new friends.

Allyson, just go to facebook.com and join. The page there will direct you how to do that. You don't have to include any personal information if you don't want to and until you are more comfortable with how it works I would keep info to a minimum. All you really need is an email address. Once joined up, type "spo mod" in the search box at the top of the facebook page and you'll find us. It may be a little intimidating but once you've done it you'll see it's pretty easy. Try it and let us know if you have any problems.

Ooooh, that is sweet. Colleen. Just for the record, the very first PDF was saved by JL Gawlick the very night before I proposed to James and Chris that we start saving PDFs and posting them to the wiki! We had something interesting happen yesterday, and I wished I had thought to take a picture but was on the phone and had mostly off internet connection that I was trying to resolve, our dog was nosing a bat on the porch yesterday morning and it had three wee babies attached. So my husband lifted them gently and carefully and put them in our boat that is over on the side in the back yard underneath trees, she crawled underneath a big magnolia leaf and then my husband put a jar lid with water in it right by the magnolia leaf. We called several bat rehabs and rescue numbers 😊 YePeRs we found them on the internet...

Three numbers were disconnected, one no answer and one we left a message, and still have not heard a reply back. Early this morning we checked and leaves WERE NOT disturbed but the water was half way down and the mother and babies were gone, hopefully she recovered and is back up in the leaves over head. 😊

Great story! Reminds me of the time when I was a kid and some bats were flying above the vacant lot next to our house. Something either frightened a mother bat, or the baby lost its grip, and the baby fell into some tall grass. My mother rescued the baby, which because it was so young, hadn't grown its wings yet. He looked just like a tiny, miniature monkey! It died after a few days. We had no way of knowing what to feed it: at that time in the '50s there were no rehab places around.

Jan, we were very surprised at how many 'bat' rehab places in our area, NE Florida, we are in Jacksonville, all within three counties. Unfortunatly three of the numbers were disconnected. I was trying to read up on the wee creatures but our ISP keep dropping us, and had to call them to resolve the problem. My husband had earlier cleaned the outside connection to our phones and lines because I was getting hoise' on our landline and I forgot to turn off the modem and it lost all of our information when I turned the computer on. Thankfully she was just stunned, we were worry that she was injured. Our American pit bull puppy thank goodness was just nosing her out of curiosity. We had a mix lab/shepard that found a wee baby flying squirrel one very very windy cold spring day, she is still with us, and just turned 14 years old! They normally live for two years in the wild, because of owls.

One early sat. morning, when I was a kid, quietly watching cartoons, I kept hearing a loud squeaking noise. It was a bat. It had the most adorable face. I got aovern mi and very carefully picked up the bat. I put it in the cold dark outdoor bread oven and left the door open. Being a kid I checked it constantly. Soon after dark, it took off.

This has been such an amazing adventure... It was like a real people family story. Mom and dad (Molly and McGee of course) meet decide to settle and have a family. Mom stays home for a while to take care of the little ones while dad goes out brings nourishment. Once the kids are old enough, mom can trust them (somewhat - ha, ha) to stay by themselves for a little while and she goes out to get nourishment. Then, kids get older and start to leave home. Every one in a while everyone gets together (like the owls did) for a reunion. Eventually everyone goes there own way and starts a family of their own. Heavy sigh...

Adam, I've been trying to think of an appropriate song for our new sheriff....but all I've been able to come up with so far is this old song called, "I Shot the Sheriff." Somehow, it isn't really the message I want to convey ...but it's still a good old song! This is a newer version of it by Eric Clapton, dedicated to THE SHERIFF! (These are the beginning lyrics...notice that you get shot, but the deputy doesn't):

I shot the sheriff
But I didn't shoot no deputy, oh no! Oh!
I shot the sheriff
But I didn't shoot no deputy, ooh, ooh, oo-oo-oh.)
Yeah! All around in my home town,
They're tryin' to track me down;
They say they want to bring me in guilty
For the killing of a deputy,
For the life of a deputy.

Everybody sing along!!! (and sound as much like Janis Joplin as you can!!)
"Freedoms just another word for fledging to the trees.
Nothing, well, nothings right if we ain't free
And feeling good is easy Lord! Please, no one sing the blues!
Feeling good is good enough, ya see,
For Molly, Wes, Pat, Austh, Max, and McGee"

Too bad the ones that I've attached don't count. Bette "liked" them when I posted them before. They're a conceptual rendition of "young, blue stars encircling a supermassive black hole at the core of a spiral galaxy like the Milky Way. The background stars are the typical older, redder population of stars that inhabit the cores of most galaxies": www.cfa.harvard.edu/~pr200901_images.htm

I don't think that those things given to them with love and admiration from fans will ever go into a garage sale. If and when the time ever comes that they feel they must part with any of it, it would probably be given to the wildlife/conservancy group that many of the monetary donations have gone to.

Use your snipping tool in accessories. Take a snip of it, name it, (the purple box on top) and it goes to pictures. That's what I do anyway. I am sure there is a more tech way to do it though.

Hi Sawwhet - it depends on what version of Word you have. But try this: Go to File, Save As and select PDF. Or, File Print and select PDF. Let me know if this works. Let me know what version of Word you have.
Today, 09:54:33 - Flag - Like - Reply

If you want to do a screencap and you are using an older version of Windows, press Alt + PrtScrn on your keyboard. Then you can save it in a Word File or a photo editing software. If you are using a newer version of Windows follow what purdyfarmsBecky describes.

I'm gonna miss the easy way
We have it now. The fun, the play
With Austin, Wes and Max, and you -
The MODs; our faithful friends, and true supporters of our Mom and Dad.

Leaving you will make us sad.
But do remember we grew tall
Because you helped us, so we'll call to you when we fly on from here.

Dear friends, this is no time for tears!
We'll grow, and mate and have our own new owlets, and they'll have a home near here someday. We'll see you soon, as silhouettes against the moon.

So raise a toast! Or eat a mouse!
But let's rejoice for Molly's house!

I try hard not to but, I seem to think in alliterative prose, where I got that, lord only knows.

RE: Festival - Have you ever tried to pick 100 publishable photos out of 20,000+ images spanning 10 years? And had to do so by trying to set aside your own personal attachment to your own cherished moments, whether they form a cohesive collection or not. It's not an easy task!

I need an editor, STAT! <http://www.inphoton.com/Festival-for-the-Fun> Note that I bailed on the web project last year, after uploading only a very small fraction of my images from 2009 festival. The galleries were never organized properly from the "old days" either. I'm still working on that whole filing system thing.
Today, 09:31:10 - Flag - Like - Reply

CAR
Filing? We don't need no stinking filing!!!!

I kind of know what you mean...used to do documentaries and for one of them, had over 120 hours of film to choose from for a 1 hour finished piece... I can't tell you how many versions, how many different points of view, how many "darlings" I had to choose from, and how hard it was to find something that both pleased me and the people the doc was made about. So, I get it, snowman!

If you're looking for opinions, let me know - I'd be happy to help if I can!

Attention MODS of all ages - The Molly Wiki has been updated with a HUGE PDF file from last night's woleit chatter.
The PDF covers the SPO shenanigans from 10pm PDT to 8:30am today. Lots of furious flying fun for the whole family! The wld file may not open for everyone but fear not. It will be tamed by a highly skilled (and fearless) PDF Wrangler in due time. If you have the courage to try and handle all 34.5mbs of raptor-ous mayhem yourself, well, have at it:

Good morning everyone from Oregon.. Well here we are. The next to the last day of the possibility of seeing our babies. Hopefully I won't be as emotional as I was yesterday. But I am so thankful and blessed by this journey. My picture folder is now over a thousand and counting. Once again, thank you all and thank you to Carlos and Donna. I've sent my request to Eric for the picture book. That would truly be something to have and to treasure. That was cool that we got to see them last night. I'm sure I will pop in from time to time today. Now to the basement to see what's be going on. 😊

If you want a coffee table book of Carlos's gorgeous photographs.....price will likely be between $50.00 and $100.00, then email eric@ericblehm.com
In order to get the book printed at a reasonable cost, they need 500 orders, or otherwise it's just too costly and it won't be printed.
I think yesterday they only had 90 people interested. There are 10's of thousands of people watching this owl family, surely there are more than 90 people interested?
I sent in my email because I desperately want a book with those gorgeous photos in it, so I can look back and remember this owl family forever.

Dear Owl Friends (I hope I can call you that...) - I don't know a single person in this chat room, but have been following Molly, McGee, the "babies" and all of you from the beginning. I was introduced to this phenomenon by a biology teacher from a community college in CA. Thank yous go out to Carlos and Donna for their monumental effort. And thanks to all who have graced these chats with comments and photos. I have been addicted to checking the website, photos, and comments. It has been heartwarming to see nature up close and personal. It will be sad tomorrow, I'm tearing up as I type, but I was truly blessed with this time sharing it with you - even if I did it quietly.

The timing of everything has been perfect. I think Carlos KNEW when the babies would no longer reside INSIDE the box.

To give us a couple of days to "regain our composure" and get used to the idea of "no more owls" show such compassion and is one of the nicest things he and Donna could do for us!

And a time for things you have to do.
The time I love the best is any evening
I can spend a moment here with you.

When the time comes and I'm feelin' lonely
And I'm feelin' oh so blue.
I just sit back and think of you only
And the happiness still comes through.

Dear Carlos and Donna, just wanted to thank you both for this wonderful opportunity to see something in nature that we would not have had if not for you. You did awesome even when the challenges and many hours might have made the job seem unending. I know that you did it out of love for Molly, McGee and the little ones and all of us and I thank you for the privilege of being a part of this. I will miss being able to have them at my command but know that life is a true adventure for them now and they are excited about it. I wish them and you both well and I hope that Molly and McGee will choose the same owl box next time. It's a sad but happy day for all.

Debbie, My computer is downstairs in the familyroom. My hubby was home all day yesterday because he has a flu bug so he got to watch me cry three times and finally after the third time crying I just had to shut it off. I am sure he thinks I am nuts but he didn't say it. He told me just to be happy that they are doing well. OMG like he was talking to a little child but he did his best to console me. By the way I am 54!!!! LOL

I've also checked North County Times for lates Moly info but nothing there. Checked local news station, also.

So far the only information on the owls leaving is the story in the Union-Tribune today.

For those who missed last night and this morning - <http://bit.ly/JH-06-12-2010-Owl-Slideshow>

A full-screen and split camera view slideshow of the activity from last night, up until 10:50pm PDT, and from this morning, starting at 4:28am. You can adjust the speed of the show by clicking one of the three speeds in the upper left corner, the options and thumbnails will appear when you move your mouse. Press the Escape key on your keyboard to Exit the slideshow. Enjoy.

James, Thank you so much for putting the wonderful slide show together. I've just spent the last hour on the trip down memory lane. (I am now going on 12 folders of screen shots. If I ever get around to a re-edit of them, I will send you some, if they seemunique)

If anyone gets bored watching the For Rent sign, head to the slide show. <http://molyowl.pbworks.com/Photos/Photos/Photos>

Today, 08:00:24 - Flag - Like - Reply

JH (in Technicolor Dreamcoat)

I don't do deadlines. 😊

As long as the Wiki is there, the slideshow can be added to. I plan to organize a few different ones, into distinct time periods, but that will need to wait until I can give it my undivided attention. I don't multi-task well.

Great! On the day that Molly came back, Lourdes Ibarra took a really touching pic, and I don't see it in the show. If she doesn't put it up, I will. I'm sure she'd like it included since she shared it with everyone several times.

I read down in the basement that Carlos is thinking of publishing a coffee table book. Did anyone else see that? Carlos needs 500 orders. It said to e-mail eric@ericblehm.com, which I have done twice, but my message came back as an error both times. Help???
