INTRODUCTION

This ebook is about our chatters and moderators in the owl box on ustream.tv who recognized they had MOD, Molly Obsessive Disorder. On September 1, I posed the question, you know you have MOD when... and asked everyone to fill in the rest of the sentence. It was so much fun and many wrote in with their completed lines.

My example was you know you have MOD when, you log in to the owl box and smell bacon! The reason is that it is one of the most talked about topics when we're not discussing Molly and McGee or her first and second clutch.

Molly and McGee are two barn owls living in a barn owl box in San Marcos, California and have a live video stream that is provided by Carlos and Donna Royal.

Thanks to all the chatters and moderators in the owl box, we now have a great collection of humorous lines that have touched many of our lives in some way or the other. It is as if we all became family, and cared much for each other. We have had a window of opportunity to peek into the world of the wild barn owl and learn so much about them. In the interim we learned a lot about ourselves. If you find you can relate to one or more of these entries, you have MOD!

"Always seek self worth, surround yourself with love, laughter and happiness, never let it go. Treasure it and pass it along, May it inspire you to do great things."
